

Union Eyed By Maintenance Employees

BY CARROLL WILSON

Unionizing of the West Texas State University maintenance department loomed as a possibility this week as a result of growing resentment over salaries and benefits among department employees.

Burgeoning discontent over an anticipated 6.8 per cent pay increase which failed to materialize this month has led several employees to meet with officials of the Amarillo local of the Operating Engineers Union.

Several department employees, who wished to remain anonymous, told The News they had met in two sessions with the operating engineers union.

Fearing reprisal from the university, the employees told The News "we're taking a risk anytime we step out and do anything."

Nevertheless, they said, "we're going to try to join with the operating engineers union in Amarillo."

One employee said the move to join the union is still in the planning stages.

"They're all for us," he said. "But, it's a matter of checking to see if the National Labor Relations Board can cover us as far as actual federal protection and make the school recognize us."

The status of the employees presents several legal questions, he said, which must be answered before the move to join the union can be made.

The questions involve whether the maintenance employees are state employees, and if so whether they can or cannot join a union.

Officials in Austin told The News the maintenance employees are not state employees.

Maintenance Director Johnny Boone told The News that any moves by his employees to join a union "have been squelched."

Boone said he heard rumours of the effort recently and talked to several employees reportedly involved.

"I told them I didn't think that was the right way to go," he said. "I don't think a union is the answer."

Boone said he suggested the employees talk with members of the Texas Public Employees Association in Amarillo about membership in that organization.

"They need to do something in the legislature because the legislature appropriates the money," Boone said. "Unless the legislature approves it, there's no way we can pay them."

Boone said he told the employees the TPEA provides lobbyists in Austin who might be able to improve their pay.

A group of maintenance department employees met with TPEA members last week.

But, they're still uncertain what to do.

"I don't know what'll be the outcome," one employee told The News, "but, as far as the union's concerned that's still in the mill."

Several maintenance employees told The News that although talk of joining a union has come up several times in the past three years the recent move is the most serious attempt yet made.

The recent action was spurred when maintenance employees received a lower salary increase as of Sept. 1 than they anticipated.

They said they were expecting an across-the-board 6.8 per cent pay increase as of Sept. 1, based

Area Postal Service Will Be Investigated

An investigation into postal service in the Panhandle will begin Tuesday when a staff assistant to a House subcommittee comes to the area in response to a request by U.S. Rep. Graham Purcell.

John Gabusi, staff assistant on the House subcommittee on postal service, will be in Canyon at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday for a public hearing with local residents concerning mail service.

Gabusi is sent to the area by Rep. Morris Udall, chairman of the postal services subcommittee.

Purcell, in a statement Aug. 30, attacked postal service in the Panhandle and called on Udall to undertake an investigation.

In a letter to Udall, Purcell said "With the discontent in my new 13th district over mail service, I am now convinced something must be done to ensure the people of Northwest Texas are obtaining adequate service."

Wednesday's meeting in Canyon will be in the community center.

It will be one of three meetings to be held by Gabusi. He is expected to visit Borger and Amarillo, also, in efforts to find the source of the postal problem.

Purcell said in late August that he had received many complaints mainly concerning the delay or curtailment of pickup

Longhorns Wham Eagles In Defensive Battle

The Caprock Longhorns stuck to the ground while the Canyon Eagles took to the air Friday night in Amarillo in a defensive battle which cost the Eagles their third loss of the season.

Taking the turf route to victory, Caprock took advantage of Canyon mistakes to claim a 14-3 win in a game in which the breaks were the deciding factor.

Canyon's defensive unit contained the explosive wishbone running attack of Longhorn speedsters Joe Velasquez and Tommy Herring, but the Eagle offense made the mistakes which cost the game.

Caprock's defense had likewise prepared well for the end sweeps and pass plays of Canyon's offense.

Receiving the opening kick-off, in fact, the Eagles were unable to move the ball.

Two breaks early in the game could have set the stage for Eagle scores but the offense was unable to get the advantage.

One break came with less than two minutes gone in the first quarter when the Eagles, forced to punt, recovered the fumbled kick on the Caprock 44 yard line.

Three plays later, the Eagles were unable to move the ball and Quarterback Ed Lair took to the air. His pass was intercepted on the Caprock 42 by Defender Louis Mendoza.

In 12 plays covering five minutes of action, the Longhorns ate up the turf in driving to their first score of the night on a five-yard run by Quarterback David Ream.

The conversion was good and with 4:49 showing in the first quarter, the Longhorns took the lead 7-0.

The subsequent kick-off was fumbled by Canyon's Raby Ratliff and the Longhorns took over on the Canyon 27.

On the first play from scrimmage, Ream took to the air and his pass was picked off by Jeff Carlile and run back to the 33.

It was Canyon's second big break.

When six plays netted only 20 yards, the Eagles were forced to punt again.

After a series of plays by each team, the Eagles again took possession at their own 35 after Caprock was forced to punt early in the second quarter.

It was a sustaining drive by the Eagle offensive unit which drove to the nine-yard line of Caprock and was unable to go further.

The talented toe of runningback Bill Moore was called into action and he kicked the 10-yard goal to put Canyon on the scoreboard with 3:25 remaining in the half.

When the half ended, the Longhorns were again threatening from the Eagle 17-yard line.

For another one and a half quarters, the Eagles and Horns played a defensive ballgame, each seeking the advantage.

Then, with just five minutes remaining in the game, the break which made the game for Caprock occurred.

Local Sorghum Crop Outlook Favorable On Irrigated Land

Randall County's grain sorghum crop outlook remains favorable if not spectacular as many farmers begin harvesting.

Ralph Ruthart, who farms six miles west of Canyon, brought in the first sorghum load reported in the county Friday afternoon to Consumer's Elevator.

Due to moisture present in the grain, Ruthart said he may wait several days before harvesting more of his crop.

County Agent John Brazzil said most farmers are expected to begin harvesting in early October.

Although the county's dryland grain sorghum crop was hard hit by lack of moisture in the critical maturation stages, Brazzil said a good crop is expected this year from the irrigated sorghum crop, which accounts for more than 50 per cent of the sorghum acreage in the county.

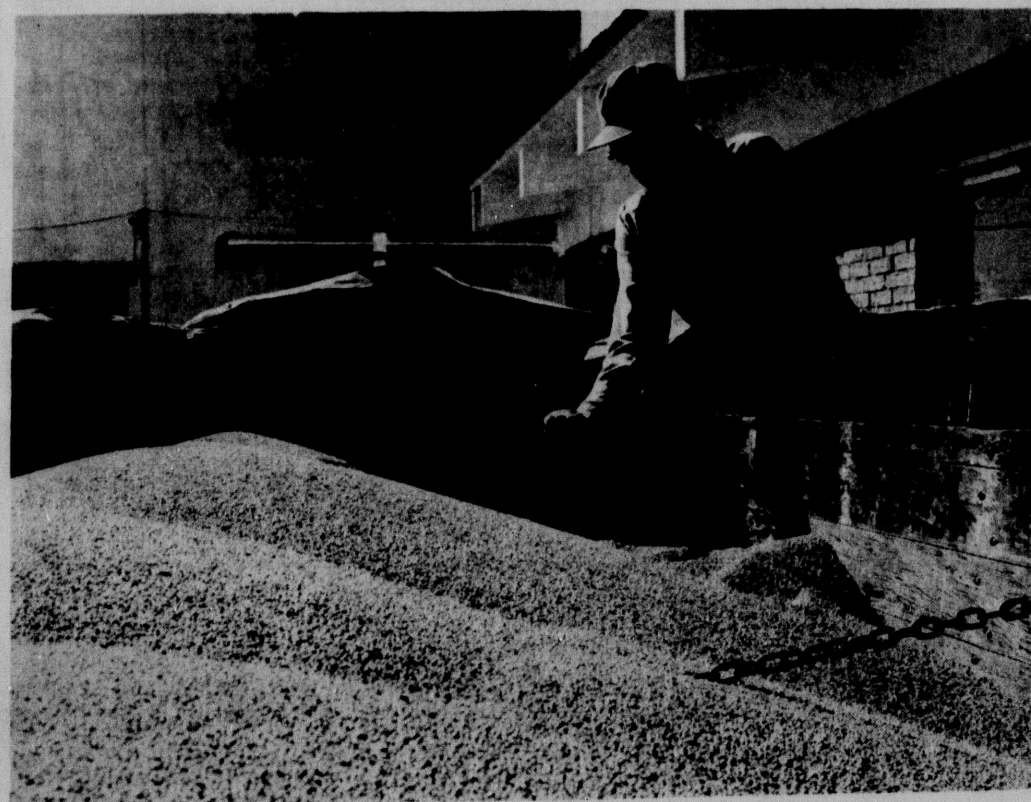

"On irrigated land, the crop appears average or maybe better," Brazzil said. "We'll make some dryland crops in some areas. Rain has been so irregular over the county that some fields are very late and there may be problems in dryland areas."

While waiting for the sun to do its work on the sorghum crop, many farmers have been waiting for moisture to facilitate planting of wheat.

"Some areas are just too dry," Brazzil said. "But, some wheat is up and looking good. We have a good percentage planted and up and we could have a significant wheat pasture."

Brazzil said September is a critical month in the production of dryland wheat, which constitutes the most acreage in the county.

Ralph Ruthart of six miles west of Canyon brought in the first load of harvested grain sorghum in the county Friday afternoon. He unloaded his sorghum at Consumer's Elevator in Canyon.

Leads News Poll Rating Price Favored Locally

(Editor's Note. This is the second of a three part series resulting from a survey made at random by the Canyon News. The telephone survey asked residents of Canyon, South Amarillo, Umlinger and the rural areas of Randall County their preferences regarding the presidential race, the senatorial and congressional races and the local option liquor election. The first part appeared in The News Thursday, Sept. 21, with the third segment scheduled for Thursday, Sept. 28.)

The November general election, from the standpoint of the races involving senators and representatives, has not caught the interest of Randall County voters. At least, that would be the conclusion drawn from talking to 30 adult voting residents.

Of the persons contacted by telephone, all had voiced an opinion and preference about who they would like to see as President of the United States.

Less than half of those same people showed any knowledge or interest in the race between Sen. John Tower and his Democratic challenger Barefoot Sanders, or in the House battle pitting Congressman Bob Price and Graham Purcell against each other.

Most said they had not given the two races much thought and indicated that they could accept whoever won in both encounters. By actual count, Congressman Price was favored two to one over his Democratic opponent, Purcell. While none of those quizzed were as vehement in their support of the congressman of their choice, each did have his or her own reason.

For Price, it seemed to be his experience with the military and general business affairs that won him support. Purcell backers banded together in their thinking that the Wichita Falls candidate was much better qualified in agriculture matters.

All persons casting a vote for either claimed that their choice was better able to deal with the vast number of problems which arise in the House of Representatives. And this included domestic matters, the economy, the war issue, oil, cattle, grain, taxes and business and labor.

At this point, in Randall County at least, Price would be the winner were the election being held at this time rather than in November.

In the Tower-Sanders race for the roses, the News poll showed the incumbent winning without working up a sweat. Of the 30 persons polled, only 14 offered to indicate any preference and Tower garnered them all.

Everyone questioned after they voiced their choice agreed that Tower was the man for the job. "He has experience and I don't know how well a new man like Sanders would do," said one

Survey Underway Here For Regional Jail Facility

Experts from the Texas Department of Corrections were in Randall County and the 24 other counties of the Panhandle last week surveying the need for a regional jail facility.

The district clerks, county clerks and key law enforcement officers in each county were surveyed, according to Gerry McPherson of the planning and field administration section of the TDC.

McPherson said the survey was requested by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, of which the City of Canyon and Randall County are members. "We'll give our recommendations to the PRPC," McPherson said, "and if they accept our proposal we'll build the facility."

McPherson said the regional jail, which would serve the state regional planning area covered by PRPC, would be built and maintained by federal and state funds.

A recommendation could be forthcoming as soon as late December.

McPherson said studies are underway in most of Texas' 23 regional planning districts for new multi-county jail facilities.

"Our jails in Texas are overcrowded and understaffed," he said. "Recent rulings in federal court, particularly the Dallas decision, gave impetus to the program."

A Dallas federal judge recently made several key rulings concerning jail facilities.

Randall County Dist. Atty.

George Dowlen said one decision in the Dallas case which could have far-reaching effects on county-maintained jails required jails to provide a recreation area.

"The regional facilities would comply with federal guidelines," McPherson said. "And, they would help the local jail people. The taxpayers wouldn't have to pay for rebuilding or renovating their jails."

"We feel there are other ad-

Safe Driving Course To Begin For Locals

A defensive driving course, the completion of which could cut automobile insurance costs for some local residents by as much as 10 per cent, will be offered at West Texas State University beginning in October.

Eural Ramsey of the physical education department will coordinate the program aided by Sam Weaver.

First course is scheduled to begin Oct. 3.

Ramsey said the eight-hour course will be taught in three blocks of instruction during evening hours on a weekday and two blocks of instruction during day hours on a weekend.

Ramsey stressed that only local residents who are not currently receiving a 10 per cent car insurance discount for the completion of drivers education or some similar program will be eligible for the 10 per cent rate reduction as a result of completion of the defensive driving course. "Anybody interested in the course should contact their own insurance company to get clarification on the 10 per cent rate reduction," Ramsey said.

Ramsey and Weaver completed Friday an 8-hour course for instructors at Amarillo College sponsored by the National Safety Association.

Classes in defensive driving will be offered on the WTSU campus.

Cost for the course is $8. All materials will be furnished. Ramsey said the course includes instruction on all facets of driving, including passing, turning and driving in adverse weather.

Classes will be limited. Ramsey said persons interested in the course should contact him at the university physical education department.

Registration for classes will be (See COURSE, Page 5)

Ugliest Dog Contest Set Next Saturday

If you've got an ugly dog, we want to see him.

The Canyon News will sponsor an Ugliest Dog Contest for Canyon residents and their hounds at 10:30 a.m. Saturday at Palo Duro Village shopping center.

Three categories are set for competition in the contest: one for the ugliest dog, one for the largest dog and one for the smallest dog.

Three judges will eye the canines, but so far only one person has agreed to pick the winners.

Judge Woody Pond, who's seen a lot of dirty dogs, has agreed to judge the contest. Two other judges will be named before the contest date.

Our World

Do Americans Deserve McGovern?

By ANN BROWN

Almost every comment one hears—both public and private—expresses confidence in the re-election of the President. McGovern, they say, hasn't a ghost of a chance. That's exactly what they said about Harry Truman.

Nature has a miraculous way of giving people what they deserve. (If not in this world—in the next.) McGovern is the epitome of all the inconsistencies the hippies, yuppies, and other arch liberals have been promulgating for years. They deserve him.

But if they get him, the rest of us get him, too. Do good Americans deserve McGovern?

Good Americans are getting many things now they don't feel they deserve. But eternal vigilance is still the price of liberty. If "good" Americans want to keep quiet and "let George do it," then they should not complain about what George does.

Our Country is already rife with suicidal policies: We protect criminals at the expense of their victims.

The law forbids the execution of the most vicious criminal but sanctions the wholesale slaughter of innocent, helpless, unborn babies.

We lower our defenses and actually nurture the enemy which has sworn to "bury" us.

Public policies tend to destroy the rich, and the productive; and perpetuate the poor, and the unproductive.

The "ecologists" want to ban pesticides, one of the great boons to humanity. The real question is, shall we eat the food or let the bugs have it? Without pesticides there would be no apples without worms, and even wormy ones would be scarce and expensive.

(Next they may want to ban germicides.)

The same philosophers who prefer pests to people want to hide our geniuses and exalt our mentally retarded.

We add billions to our national debt, and tax parents out of their homes to buy buses to destroy the neighborhood schools and cheat our children out of an education.

There is an increasing clamor for the government to assume the responsibility of the parents through day-care centers and child development programs.

Time was when a man could not divorce his wife except for desertion or adultery. Now he can divorce her any time he pleases, and abandon his children at will. Recently a man was sent to the penitentiary, who left in his wake 6 divorced wives, four of whom had children.

Deficit government spending creates inflation, which has forced many unwilling mothers out of the home to work. This has contributed to the epidemic of broken homes and delinquent children.

Financial pressures, easy divorce, and easy abortion are making tragic inroads on American homes. As goes the homes, so goes the nation.

Self preservation is the first law of life. So what happens to an individual or a nation that culminates in the abnormal act of self destruction?

First, there must be a conviction that the future is hopeless, and a total disregard for the others involved. Of course, the suicide is usually too physically or emotionally ill to see things realistically. How realistic is our national viewpoint?

America with all her shortcomings is still the greatest nation in the world, and many neighbors look to us for guidance and support. We are approaching the crossroads; which way shall we go?

It looks as if all our nation needs to self destruct is a President who is willing to push the button. Are we going to let George do it?

Meandering with Margo 'Ugliest Dog' Contest Coming

By MARGO FIELDS

Amarillo does have some spunk left, and a city commissioner from our northern neighbors proved it Tuesday night.

During a discussion about the Amarillo hospital district, someone noted that the Lubbock paper called a proposed hospital facility down there "an ivory tower."

This description ruffled some folks in Amarillo especially if Amarillo might help pay for it indirectly.

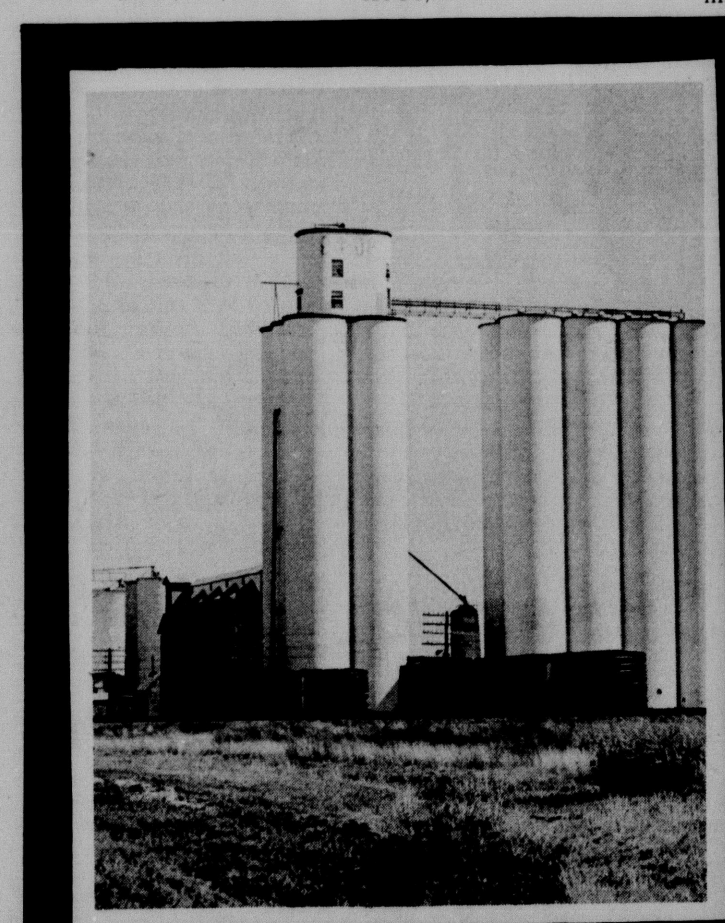

A commissioner subtly quipped, "We must remember that an ivory tower to Lubbock is only three stories high."

We are sponsoring the Ugliest Dog Contest next Saturday, and by the looks of some of the pups running around loose in Canyon there should be a crowd.

The contest has evoked such sparkling headline suggestions as, "The Canyon News Goes To The Dogs," "Ugliness is Beautiful," etc., etc., etc.

There have been more than a few complaints about the recent raises meted out to employees—professors and custodians, alike—at West Texas State University.

Many expected a 6.8 per cent raise, and most got less than that.

One associate professor said his raise worked out to less than $5 per month.

Now, several people in the maintenance department have decided to take some action to improve their lot.

Currently, their lot is not so hot.

As today's story about the maintenance department indicates, feelings are running at high pitch in the department.

And, their lot is not unusual.

A check with Ray Downing, head of maintenance at Texas Tech, revealed that his employees make as little as WTSU's do. Custodians in Lubbock make from $295 per month to about $380 per month. A carpenter can make from $6060 annually to $7740, while a mechanic can start at $585 a month.

If the WTSU maintenance employees thought their situation unlivable, they should be working for Downing.

He viewed the legislature's raise not as a cost-of-living adjustment, but as money which could be used for merit raises.

His employees will receive a raise on their anniversary date of employment, and then only if they deserve it.

The real problems with the raises is the way the appropriated money was given the state's universities.

One member of the legislative appropriations committee said the money was given the universities as a lump sum and not with instructions that everyone receive a 6.8 per cent raise.

The American Party is trying a little political blackmail in its effort to get on the November general election ballot.

Party officials have threatened to "swamp" the polls on election day with write-in candidates.

After the showing the Party made in the Panhandle area in an effort two weeks ago to gather signatures for petitions to get on the ballot, I really doubt that too many people are going to be willing to throw away their votes to write-in the name of an American Party candidate up here.

The Party tried too little too late this year, and they're going to be faced with the same problem in 1976 since they aren't on the ballot this year.

One Randall County Democrat who returned last week from that party's convention downstate, said he is becoming increasingly more disillusioned with Dolph Briscoe, his party's candidate for governor.

"He just can't make up his mind," the Democrat said.

National convention viewers got that same impression as they watched the Texas' delegation shenanigans at Miami.

If there's one thing Texas doesn't need these days, it's a man of indecision and capriciousness.

Canyon's Eagles look stronger each week. They're gaining experience and some smoothness of operation.

While the season opener loss to Spearman was a miserable experience for the Eagles, they can hold their heads much higher about Friday night's loss to the Longhorns.

Canyon will probably be in contention for the district title. These games against AAAA teams are taking their toll in statistics but they're doing wonders for the play of the local team.

Don't give up. There's still a long season ahead.

Sisters Place In Pony Show

Two Canyon youngsters took awards in the Annual Pony Show held at Bill Cody Horse Barn in Amarillo, Sept. 17. Billy Hardwick of Springtown, Texas, was the judge for the show sponsored by West Texas Shetland Pony Breeders Association.

The winners were Sally Flenniken, a Rex Reeves student, who took second place in costume and lead line class, riding Comanche Squaw, and her sister, Susan Flenniken, a Canyon Junior High School student, who took second place in stallion class foaled in 1971, riding Whiskers.

Sally and Susan are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Flenniken, northwest of Canyon.

Both 9th Grade Teams Lose Games To Borger

Canyon's two 9th grade teams bowed last week to Borger teams in junior high football action.

The 9th grade white team defeated 14-6 with David Coronado making the only score on a five-yard run.

Tommy Pence took home awards as outstanding offensive and defensive lineman in the game. Kenny Basinger was named outstanding offensive back and Ron Mills was awarded honors as outstanding defensive back.

Special awards went to Pence, Greg Taylor and Mills.

The 9th grade purple bowed to Borger 30-22 with Craig Johnson named outstanding player of the game.

Borger scored twice in the first quarter and Canyon bounced back in the second on an end sweep for 55 yards and the touchdown by Johnson. Half time score stood at 16-6.

Johnson ran back a kick-off 75 yards to pay dirt in the third stanza to again put Canyon in the scoring column.

In the final period, Johnson ran 45 yards for a touchdown. With the final Canyon score, the game was tied up at 22-22 with only 4 minutes remaining.

Borger rebounded with a score on a 60-yard end sweep run.

When the game ended the purple team of Canyon was threatening from the Borger 9-yard line.

Driving Program And Demonstration Held At CHS

A safe driving program was held Thursday morning at Canyon High School through cooperation of the Texas Farm Bureau and its safety department.

The estimated 700 students and teachers heard Ben B. Bullard of Waco, the bureau's assistant safety director, explain many aspects of safe and unsafe driving.

Bullard told the group that drivers had a "social responsibility" as well as a legal responsibility and cited "excessive speed" as the greatest single cause of highway accidents. "When drivers know the true facts and base their driving on those facts, highway accidents will drop sharply," said Bullard in pointing to accident statistics.

A movie, A Matter of Judgement, was shown and it centered on the driver's need to concentrate on what he or she is doing as well as knowing the laws and obeying them. The film depicted several examples of vehicles going out of control and speed was the contributing factor in each. Following the movie, the students gathered outside and saw a dramatic example of speed being the major factor in stopping ability.

Driving a specially equipped car furnished by the Farm Bureau, two students and a member of the faculty took part in tests designed to show stopping distances required at speeds of 20, 30, and 40 miles-per-hour.

The car offered an electronic cartridge firing device on its front bumper. When the first bullet-like shot was fired by

Bullard from the car's passenger seat, the drivers were instructed to apply the brakes. A second shot was fired when the brakes were applied and the third went off when the stop was accomplished. A blast of yellow powder shot from the cartridges marked on the street the exact spot that each phase of the test occurred. The distances between the spots were then measured, giving the reaction time and the actual stopping time.

Roy Markham, a senior, made the test run at 20 MPH and recorded a reaction distance of eight feet, nine inches. His braking distance of 16 feet, three inches gave him a total stopping distance of 25 feet.

Teddi Crager, also a senior, reacted within a distance of 13 feet, four inches. With a braking distance of 15 feet, one inch, her total elapsed distance before stopping was 28 feet, five inches. Her driving speed was also 20 MPH.

A teacher, Leonard Kent, made a test run at 30 MPH and reacted within 15 feet, seven inches. Another 57 feet, six inches were required to bring the car to a halt, the total distance being 73 feet, one inch. According to Bullard, the car was moving slightly more than 30 MPH when the driver was signaled to begin stopping.

At 40 MPH, Kent reacted by applying the brakes at 28 feet, one inch. After a locked skid of 72 feet, three inches, the car stopped. The total distance had been just over 100 feet. The skid marks also indicated that the vehicle was beginning to turn sideways, the initial indication that control is being lost.

Bullard said his department presents an average of 100 driving safety programs each year. The program began 16 years ago and has been used each year since except for a period from 1963 to 1966 when a new fire safety program was instigated.

In addition to the driving and fire programs, the Farm Bureau also offers films and demonstrations on electrical shock and tractor safety. The tractor program was presented to the Canyon High School student body last year, Bullard said.

Also at the school Thursday were Joe Turpin, president of the Randall County Farm Bureau, and members of the Canyon Police Department.

Ben Bullard of Waco, a safety representative with the Texas Farm Bureau, loading up a special shell firing device used Thursday in a safety demonstration at Canyon High School. The bumper mounted unit fires a blast of yellow powder onto the street marking distances in a braking test.

200th Birthday Celebration Begins Saturday at WTSU

West Texas State University launches its four-year observance of America's 200th birthday Saturday with a symposium on oral history featuring three eminent authorities in the field.

The event is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the library of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Featured participants include Joseph H. Cash, Duke research professor of history and director of the American Indian Research Project at the University of South Dakota; Joe B. Frantz, professor of history and director of the University of Texas oral history program; and Benedict Zobrist, director of the Harry S

Truman Presidential Library at Independence, Mo.

The project is the first offering by the Texas College and University American Revolution Bicentennial Committee, Region I.

The committee, which includes WTSU, Clarendon College and Amarillo College, is directing the regional bicentennial celebration, including a wide spectrum of events, cultural displays, special courses and lectures and seminars dealing with various aspects of American life.

The purpose of the symposium, says Dr. Duane Guy, WTSU history department head, is to seek advice from the authorities on launching an intensive oral history program for the Panhandle area.

One of the richest sources of Panhandle historical material, says Guy, comes from the mouths of the "old timers" who still harbor recollections of the region's pioneering days.

The oral history project is designed as an attempt to chronicle the stories and personal accounts of pioneering residents while they are still living, Guy says.

He adds that the program will be initiated within the next two years.

Guy is serving as chairman of the regional committee as well as being WTSU's representative on the state steering committee which guides and partially funds the statewide bicentennial effort.

Reservations for the noon luncheon of the symposium may be made through the History Department, West Texas State University, Canyon, Texas 79015. A $2 charge for the meal is payable at the door.

CHS Students Are Arrested On Pot Charge

Two Canyon High School students were arrested Thursday night by city police and later charged with possession of marijuana.

Officials said the two 16-year-old boys were turned over to juvenile authorities.

They were arrested about 9 p.m. Thursday as they drove on 22nd Avenue in front of Rex Reeves School.

Jack Magee was arresting officer.

PAUL FERGUSON, PRESIDENT of the association, encourages all community members to attend, especially newcomers to the community and anyone who has not attended a meeting to this date. This would be a good time to meet your new neighbors.

ON TUESDAY EVENING at 8:00 members are asked to come to the association building for cleaning before the meeting

Industrial Review

Outdoor portraits are the finest in photography, and Fred Potter Photography of Amarillo is making that talent a specialty. Vicki Potter, a partner with her husband in the business, has just returned from Dallas where she attended a seminar in outdoor photography sponsored by Meisel Photochrome Corp.

"I learned so much about this field while in Dallas, and we have been using many of the techniques in our business for some time," she explains. "Now we can really get into this on a full scale."

The couple will open their new office facilities in Cornado Shopping Center at 35th and Georgia soon. Meanwhile they are reached by calling 352-5873. They operate by appointment only, "so we can give the proper time to each assignment."

Another specialty of the photography studio is wedding pictures. They charge nothing for mileage to Canyon and bridal picture packages start at $69.95.

Party Pics is another service that the Potter Studio provides. Party Pics can be of any kind of group including baseball and football teams, clubs as well as parties. One week's notice is required. There is no charge for going out to the requested location or for shooting the pictures and there is no obligation.

Pictures taken Friday through Sunday will have the previews back by Wednesday. The pictures are printed on a silk finish paper and captions on pictures will be offered free of charge.

"We are still the only company in Texas that can make large posters or blowups," notes Fred. The 2 1/2 ft. by 3 ft. poster sells for $6 and Potter also offers a poster about twice that size.

Posters are made from negatives or from other pictures. Call 352-5873 and make an appointment with Vicki and Fred for a beautiful outdoor portrait, or for a wedding coming up in your family.

Far East Tables Sport American-Grown Wheat

American wheat farmers are helping put the majority of the bread on tables in Japanese households.

While the consumption of rice in Japan has stabilized over the past few years, the consumption of bread and other wheat products is on the rise.

Four Japanese flour millers and two officials of milling associations told West Texas State University students and professors Thursday morning Japan is dependent on the importation of U.S. wheat to meet the increasing demand for products in that country.

The six are touring the United States sponsored by the Western Wheat Associates, Inc., Great Plains Wheat, Inc., and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, as part of a market development program.

In introducing the Japanese guests, Bill Nelson of the Great Plains Wheat, Inc., said the four millers "represent direct purchases of $200 million a year of U.S. wheat."

The executive director of the Japanese Flour Millers Association, Masayoshi Chisaka, said there are currently 240 flour milling companies in Japan operating 286 mills.

His association includes in its membership only 37 of those companies, but those 37 companies mill 85.7 percent of the wheat milled in Japan.

And, he said, the four milling representatives visiting Canyon Thursday are executives of companies which mill 80 percent of the wheat in Japan.

Chisaka said wheat runs a poor third to cereal and rice in kilograms consumed annually by the Japanese people. Japanese consume cereals at a per capita rate of 120.5 kilograms annually, rice at a per capita rate of 95.1 kilograms annually and wheat at a rate of 30.8 kilograms annually.

"Rice consumption is decreasing year by year," he said, "while wheat consumption is showing a slight increase."

Chisaka said Japanese farmers are producing less and less wheat to meet this growing demand.

and delivery service from main post offices, the delay in transit of letters, papers and checks and the closing of small post offices in towns and the loss of postmarks for towns.

"Regrettably I have found that many people no longer believe they are getting the type service for which they are now being taxed," Purcell said.

Purcell said postmasters and mail carriers also feel strongly that service is not what it should be.

caught the Rams off guard, Mayfield said. "We probably should have used them more. Our defense perked up in the second quarter and we seemed to be tackling much harder," he concluded.

If the offense took advantage of breaks, it was the rock-hard Buff defense that set them up.

The final three Buff scores of the game were set up by the defensive unit.

With 11:01 remaining in the game, and with the Buffs leading 19-14, the Buff defenders held their ground as the Rams tried for elbow room.

The ball went over on downs and the offensive unit wasted no time in scoring on a Quarterback Mike Wartes pass to Brown for 67 yards.

An Arcadio Rivera kick made the score 26-14 in favor of the West Texans.

In less than two minutes, the Buffs were back on the scoreboard, this time on a one-yard run by Billy Pritchett, fullback. The score was set up by a Ram pass interception on their own 12 by linebacker Steve Rogers.

Again Rivera's kick was good and the score with less than seven minutes remaining stood at 33-14 in favor of the Buffs.

The play which set up the final Buff score came with less than two minutes remaining on the clock as the Buff defenders once again held their ground and forced the Rams to punt.

Driving 78 yards in six plays, WTSU's stand-in Quarterback Ron Leach passed to Scott Doores for an 18-yard touchdown as four zeroes clicked on the scoreboard clock.

The Buffs' first half scores were made by Halfback Jimmy Lisle on a two-yard run and a Carl Brown reverse for eight yards.

West Texas whopped the Rams on more than the scoreboard as the Buffs racked up 450 total yards rushing compared to 326 mustered by the Rams.

Cowboys Roll By Whiteface

The Happy Cowboys erupted for 566 total yards Friday night and exploded over the Whiteface Leopards 50-0. The opposition was held to a total of 25 yards by the 200-pound Happy defensive line.

Chris Pearson rolled up an impressive 232 yards and was followed by teammate Gary Looney who picked up 113 yards. Pearson and Looney each tallied three times during the Cowboy uprising.

End Gary Barrett picked up another touchdown by scampering into the end zone with a 32 yard pass tossed by quarterback Mark Hargrave. The other Cowboy score came on a 15-yard run by halfback Teddy Offield.

Coach Robert Criswell said after the game that his line, both on offense and defense, "played better than any time since I have been here."

vantages, too, like rehabilitating and improving job skills of the criminal.

The regional jail facilities would be primarily for the minor felon or major misdemeanor offender and for felons who are awaiting the outcome of appeals.

"The long-range plan is to make them a part of the state correctional system," McPherson said.

Just little more than 300 yards of the Buff rushing total were on the ground while 106 were made by the Rams on the ground.

Wartes made 187 yards passing while leading ground gainer during the outing was Lisle with 95 yards on 11 carries.

Halfback Cole Fraley made 67 yards in 14 carries and Pritchett made 40 yards on 19 carries.

Leading rusher for the Rams was halfback Rod Blackford with 29 yards on 13 carries.

C.S.U. coach Jerry Wampfler said after the game the Buffs had beaten his team in every department.

"They wanted it more than we did," he claimed. "They played a real fine game. They were much better tonight than we had seen them on film."

The visiting coach said WT receivers had beaten his defensive backs at least six times.

"They were quicker and hit harder than we thought they would, but mostly they just wanted to win more than we did," he said.

on reports in the news media. Instead, few pay increases matched the 6.8 per cent figure for maintenance employees and most increases were well under that figure.

"It was 4.8 per cent and less for most of the people," said one employee.

"People were expecting it (the 6.8 per cent raise) and they didn't come by it," another said. "This just added gasoline to the fire."

Salary figures included in the 1972-73 budget approved during the summer by WTSU regents indicate fewer than 10 of 89 full-time maintenance employees received a 6.8 per cent increase in salary.

Several received 6.0 per cent increases, but the majority received less than a 6 per cent raise.

For the employees seeking unionization, the failure of the university to provide the anticipated pay hike was simply the epitome of other existing problems in the maintenance department.

They cited low salaries as the main concern of most of the employees.

"The custodial and ground maintenance people are more underpaid than we are," said one employee. "I don't know how some of those boys put beans on the table. Our salaries have been upgraded some but compared to other departments here we just don't compare."

Budget figures indicate that salaries in the building maintenance section of the department range from a low for 12 months of $4,800 to a high of $9,900. Average salary is around $6,000.

In the custodial division of the department, salaries are much lower, ranging from a high of more than $6,000 to a low of $4,560. The majority of the custodians make between $4,500 and $5,500 annually.

Groundskeeper salaries range from a low of $3,000 to a high of $4,560. The majority received a 5.6 per cent raise on Sept. 1.

Boone agreed that salaries for his department employees are low.

But, he said his hands are tied to provide an increase which isn't appropriated by the legislature.

Salaries may not be the total problem in the maintenance department.

One employee, admitting it would be hard to improve working conditions, said there is a feeling among the department's employees "that we're at the mercy of a lot of people and we don't have much to say about it."

He said he feels the maintenance department has no real representation in dealing with university officials over money matters.

"I think we're a bunch of orphans," he said. "I don't think anybody really wants us."

Eagles...

The Eagles, after picking up a Longhorn fumble on the Caprock 38-yard line, had driven to the 18 in anticipation of scoring.

On a third down play, Lair fumbled a hand-off to his runningback and Caprock recovered on their own 24.

The fumble recovery seemed to inspire the Longhorns as they drove undaunted from deep in their own territory to paydirt.

The Caprock score came with 30 seconds left in the game.

Canyon tallied 157 total yards in the game with 61 yards credited to the passing game. Lair attempted 20 passes, completed seven and had two intercepted.

Moore was leading ground gainer for the Eagles with 42 yards in 15 carries.

The Longhorns made 267 total yards during the game with 217 of them on the ground. Quarterback Ream passed only 6 times and completed four.

Valesquez made 73 yards on the ground to lead Longhorn rushers in 16 carries. Herring made 48 yards in 10 carries.

The Eagles tallied 11 first downs while Caprock made 17 first downs.

Canyon, 0-3 for the season, goes against another AAAA school next weekend when they meet Hereford at Hereford on Friday night.

"I might not vote for Tower if Price, Purcell, Connolly or somebody with know-how was running against him," offered a South Amarillo woman. "But I just don't know about that other guy (Sanders)."

From the persons polled, it was indicated that each felt that U.S. Senators and Representatives did not have the impact on everyday matters as do the president and state and local officeholders.

In the final analysis it was, according to the survey, Price winning in Randall County over Purcell for the House of Representatives. For the Senate seat, Tower by a flood.

Freshman Bufs Down Cisco 17-7

West Texas State's defensive-minded Buffalo freshman football team opened its season Friday night with a 17-7 victory over the Cisco Junior College Wranglers.

The young Buffaloes held the Wranglers to 91 yards rushing and 17 yards passing during the game.

Cisco's only score came in the 4th quarter when an Eddie Richardson punt was partly deflected and end Louie Hall picked it up on the Buffalo 28 and scampered for a touchdown.

West Texas pushed for a touchdown in the 1st quarter after recovering a Cisco fumble at the Wrangler 25 yard line. Canyon's Mike Podzemny bounced on the loose ball at that point to set up the scoring thrust.

On the sixth play, Eddie Richardson bounced off several tacklers and ran the last 12 yards to give the young Buffs a 6-0 lead in the 1st quarter. Bruce Wyre converted to make it 7-0.

Midway through the 2nd quarter, Kelvin Caesar picked off a Cisco pass and raced 96 yards to score West Texas' other touchdown.

A Buff fumble at the WT 12 yard line had set Cisco up in scoring position prior to Caesar's interception.

While the young Buffs lost four fumbles, they balanced it out by intercepting four Cisco passes.

The final Buff marker came in the 3rd quarter when Wyre was true on a 33 yard field goal attempt.

Canyon Well Represented At Tri-State Fair Recently

Canyon residents have made a good showing at the Tri-State Fair last week in Amarillo with several taking honors.

In the art department, Marilyn Robertson of Rt. 1, Box 58, Canyon, took second place in the oil still life and Dewery Dampf of Rt. 2, Box 299, Canyon, took first and second places in sculpture. Both were taking part in the student division.

In the adult division for artists, first place in the graphics section was won by Lee Smith of 2612 3rd Ave., Canyon. The adult award for first place sculpture went to Henry H. Gerdsen of Rt. 2, Canyon and Beverly Dampf of Rt. 2, Box 209, Canyon, won top honors in the metal collage event.

In the horse show, an unnamed stallion entered by Pete and Katherine Fischbacher of Canyon won second place in the event for stallions 1972.

Cooking was another Canyon high point with one entrant, entering jointly with her sister, taking seven first and five second place ribbons. She is Mrs. Ed Cranmer of 524 11th Ave., Canyon.

Other winners in the cooking division included Linda Pinkerton who took first place in best decorated real cake, and Raylene Robinson of Canyon who won second place in the "any other relish" segment of the judging.

In the junior, senior and teenage divisions of the textile department, Doris Grabber of Canyon won second place with her entry in the novelties section. Second place in lunch cloths and napkins went to Nellie Lee Sheets of Canyon with Mrs. Bernard Grabber winning second place in ladies' coats.

Mrs. Grabber also won first place in the event of "any other" and Raylene Robinson picked up a second ribbon by placing second in "decoupage, any other."

In the barrow show judged Thursday, Miss Rhonda Tucek of the Canyon FFA Club took second place in the Duroc light-weight class.

An energetic 28-year-old professor describing himself as "vitaly interested in the music of today and tomorrow" will take his place on the podium as director of the WTSU Symphony Orchestra this year.

Michael Matesky, who in his short career has amassed more musical and academic accolades than most in his field acquire in a lifetime, will assume the direction of the group and serve on the music department faculty as assistant professor of music.

He replaces Brian Walton in both positions, as well as in posts of assistant director and principal cellist with the Amarillo Symphony, and cellist in the university's Faculty Trio.

Matesky says that the "egghead" image of academicians is rapidly vanishing as a "high sense of social responsibility creeps into the old ivory tower of colleges and universities."

"As an artist and teacher," says Matesky, "I feel a deep obligation to my generation both to musicians in the European tradition and such gifted artists as Bob Dylan, the Beatles, and James Brown."

An astute observer of the contemporary music scene, Matesky has traveled widely throughout the United States and Europe observing the latest trends in music.

"American popular music experienced a creative surge in the middle 60s, reaching its height in the period that gave us 'Woodstock,' 'The Graduate,' and 'Easy Rider.' Much of its success was due to its sheer power; that tremendous decibel level, as well as sometimes beautiful melody."

"In all of us that went through the rock experience, there developed a sense that there was nothing outside our own funky rock world. It was a self-centered attitude, a feeling that what we were listening to on the radio was the whole musical universe."

In the weeks since Matesky arrived at the university, he has developed a highly ambitious roster of plans for the orchestra and music department.

Already on the boards for this year is an "Orchestra Invitational Day" in which three or four outstanding high school orchestras in the Panhandle-Plains area will be invited for a day of performances and clinics, as well as a tour of the university and introduction to its fine arts program.

Also in the planning stages is a "concerto program" in which the most talented musicians in the entire university will compete for solo appearances with the WT Symphony Orchestra.

The goal of the concerto program, says Matesky, is to give young talent the opportunity for solo performance as well as to improve both the quality of student performance and the general community cultural milieu.

Buff Boosters Hear Campbell, See Drake Film

About 30 members attended the weekly meeting of the Buffalo Boosters Club Thursday night and heard assistant coach Jim Campbell discuss the fumble-ridden loss to Drake University.

The group reviewed the first half offensive action and the defensive efforts of the complete game.

Campbell said the Buffs were expecting tough competition from Colorado State over the weekend but he did not make any predictions regarding the possible outcome.

The session broke up early so that members and Coach Campbell could move on to the stadium where Coach Gene Mayfield was drilling his charges under the lights in preparation for the Saturday night tilt against Colorado State.

Matesky also reported that he is hoping to instigate a guest artist series in which a distinguished musician will either perform with the orchestra or in recital, as well as give master classes for students.

He also plans to "expand the orchestra's repertoire to include works as diverse as possible—representing both the avant-garde without sacrificing performance of the standard classical repertoire."

"The beautiful thing about art," says Matesky, "is that no matter when a piece is composed or a picture painted, it's a thing of enduring beauty—as Keats said, 'its loveliness increases; it will never pass into nothingness.'"

Matesky holds a Bachelor of Music degree from the University of the Pacific, Stockton, Calif., and a Master of Music degree from Northern Arizona University, where he served as teaching assistant.

He is currently working toward a doctorate in musical arts from the University of Washington, where he also served as a teaching assistant.

He attended the University of Southern California on a Hans Schiffrich scholarship and was a Copenhagen, Stockholm, London, Geneva and numerous other California at Berkeley and UCLA. places.

A native of Los Angeles, he served as cello coach at Idyllwild School of Music for five years. He won the Emma Bartlett Award of the Compton Civic Symphony in 1961, and appeared on state-wide television in New York in an interview on coaching and conducting in conjunction with his visit with the Syracuse Symphony concerts with Arthur Fiedler in which his sister, Elizabeth, appeared as violin soloist.

His performance credits include appearances with the Compton Civic Symphony, the Idyllwild Tour Symphony, the University of the Pacific Orchestra, Stockton Symphony and Northern Arizona Symphony.

He has conducted the Idyllwild Tour Orchestra both at USC and over the BBC, and also directed the University of the Pacific Chamber Orchestra, the Northern Wasatch Youth Orchestra and various chamber orchestras at UW.

A former member of the Pacific String Quartet, Matesky has performed as cellist or conductor throughout the United States and Europe, including Los Angeles, Seattle, Oslo, Schiffrich scholarship and was a Copenhagen, Stockholm, London, Geneva and numerous other California at Berkeley and UCLA. places.

THE NEW ART CENTER OPENS FORMALLY the week of September 25 through October 1 (next week). Wednesday has been designated as the day art groups are especially invited to be present and tour the facility.

THE FORMAL DEDICATION is scheduled at 3 p.m. next Sunday-October 1. The center is opened daily from 10:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. and is located at Amarillo College, by the way.

The Randall County Feedyard Thursday hosted some forty business, industrial, civic and agricultural leaders from Wichita, Kans.

Arriving by chartered bus, the group toured the cattle feeding facility during the afternoon. It was their last stop on a three-day, four city airborne visit to Colorado, New Mexico and Texas.

The AIRMADA, flying in 15 private planes, had been in Colorado Springs and Denver on Tuesday and Wednesday and in Albuquerque earlier in the day Thursday.

The Randall County visit was made after a luncheon meeting with city leaders in Amarillo.

According to a tour spokesman, the group is sponsored by the Wichita Chamber of

The fifteen persons receiving the largest number of votes in the morning balloting will then be voted on in the evening service today in order to narrow the number to five.

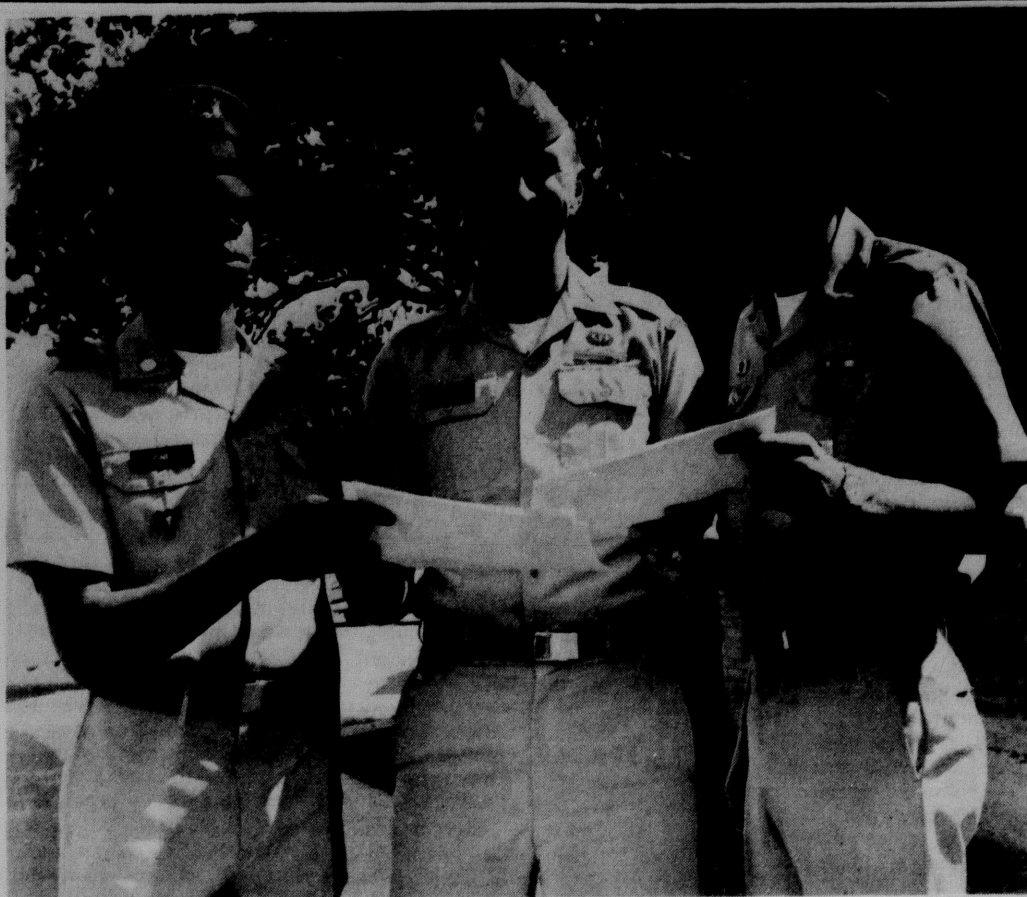

One of the persons on the committee must be a young man or woman between the age of 15 and 25, according to the Rev. Mel Hardin, pastor.

Frost Pays Early Visit To The Canyon Area

There may not have been frost on the pumpkin Friday morning, but there was on metal, glass, plastic and similar objects.

It wasn't quite cold enough to require chopping open watering tanks or dog bowls but for the first time this season car windshields needed attention because of the cold. In fact, it could be said that it was the first frost of the "summer" since the early morning ice came some nine hours before the official close of summer.

According to the weather bureau, the temperature hit 40 degrees at 8 a.m. Friday, tying the record low for Sept. 22. There were reports of lower temperatures in the immediate Canyon area, some as low as the mid-30's.

12 WT Cadets Receive Award

Twelve cadets in the West Texas State Reserve Officer Training Corps have been commended for accomplishments during annual summer camp activities this year.

Lt. Col. John Childs, professor of military science, presented certificates to the 12 for completion of RECONDO training.

Cadets Clendon Jones Jr. and William Dickey received additional honors as being among the top five per cent in physical proficiency at the summer training camp.

Pond Elected Group Head

County Judge Woody Pond was elected president of the Panhandle-South Plains Youth Council Friday.

Pond had been serving the unexpired term of the previous president, who died in office.

Pond was elected during the second day of the two-day youth council conference in Lubbock.

Open House Held At Buffalo Lake

An "open house" was held at the Buffalo Lake National Wildlife Refuge Saturday in observance of National Hunting and Fishing Day. From 300 to 500 persons were expected to visit the area, said Paul Ferguson, manager of the refuge.

The office was open from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m., with members of the staff on hand to pass out information leaflets and answer questions.

According to Ferguson, about 2,500 persons per day visited the refuge's National Hunting and Fishing Day exhibit at the Tri-State Fair in Amarillo.

In other weekend activity at the lake, the Panhandle Retrievers Club will hold field trials in the area just below the dam on Sunday. About 60 persons with their dogs are expected for the event.

Canyon Firemen Work To Make Their City Safe

The City of Canyon is proud of its volunteer fire department and, apparently, the members of the department are proud of Canyon.

According to a report made to the city commission Monday night by Deputy Fire Chief Joe Rice, the 31-member department is unexcelled in spirit and efficiency when compared to those in cities of similar size.

"We have ten men on the waiting list... and its the biggest and best list we ever had," said Rice.

In speaking of the interest shown by department members, Rice said that everyone wanted to go to a recent fire conference held in Hereford. "We had to turn them down."

The deputy chief added that the department boasts 600 to 700 years combined experience and that fire-drill attendance runs from 90 to 95 percent.

The department has begun a training program for men on the waiting list and for newer members of the department. Rice said the program was experimental now and would probably be modified after the first of next year. He said that fire drills were difficult to plan in a department made up of veteran firemen with years of experience and others relatively new to the force. Asst. Chief Robert Rogers is in charge of the program.

In accounting for the volunteer groups interest in the department, Rice cited "exceptionally good leadership." He said the assistant chiefs and lieutenants were doing an outstanding job.

Within the next two or three weeks, the Canyon Fire Department will become the first in Texas to use a new "manifold system" designed to give firefighters a maximum amount of water within a minimum length of time.

The device, which cost about $1,300, was bought out of the volunteer group's fund, Rice said, with the total membership taking part in the unanimous vote.

The firemen's fund is money paid by the city to each fireman at the rate of $2 per fire or drill. "Of course the men never see the money," commented Rice. "It goes into the fund and is used to buy equipment and to pay for our banquet and other social events."

The new hose device will allow one pump truck to drop three water lines as it approaches a fire. In addition to those three lines, two other lines will be unrolled from the moving truck at the same time, making it "look like a big spider." The tri-hose mechanism can be modified to allow the use of seven hoses from a single truck, the deputy chief said.

The manifold system is being installed for use against major fires such as at schools, apartment complexes, churches and other large structures.

Bicycles, Kids Take Over In Canyon Saturday

It was Bicycle Day in Canyon Saturday with a safety rodeo, races and posters leading the way.

The rodeo, held on the parking lot of the First National Bank, saw more than 25 youngsters show up before 11 a. m. to take part.

Prior to the rodeo, winners of a related poster contest conducted in grades one through six at Rex Reeves and Gene Howe Elementary Schools were announced. The winners were:

The Cougars and the Purple People Eaters are idle today.

Sixth grade: 1. Randy Thomas of Clea. 2. Terry Costley of 710 8th St. 3. Mike Begert of 1422 Hillcrest.

Many of the posters were on display at the bank parking lot Saturday and others will be distributed throughout Canyon during the week.

In the afternoon, three bike racing events were held around the square with entrants ranging in age from six to 14.

In the event limited to regular bicycles, eight through 10 year olds competed in two-lap heats around the square. Boys and girls with 10-speed bikes took part in a 10-lap event and the open section, with any type bike making 20 laps, ended the racing.

The results of the races will appear in The Canyon News on Thursday.

Mrs. Hall, Home Demonstration Agent, Will Stress Consumer Competence

Volunteer Group Plans For Meals Program

When swamped with family living problems, you can always count to 10 and hope they vanish, or you can join a home demonstration club.

"Home demonstration clubs are open to all homemakers who would like to learn better ways to tackle chores and improve both home and community life," Mrs. Becky Hall, county home demonstration agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

Mrs. Hall explained that the Extension Service sponsors the clubs as part of a statewide educational effort to bring the latest information to all families. Local clubs focus on the needs of homemakers in that particular county.

Randall County now has eight home demonstration clubs. The clubs and their presidents are Edgettown, Mrs. Max Bosley; Highland, Mrs. James Janssen; Jowell, Mrs. Ervin Davis; Palisades, Mrs. Jerrill Moore; Palo Duro Rusk, Mrs. Wil Gunter; Pleasantview, Mrs. Robert Joe Rice; Sunnyhill, Mrs. Kenneth Danner; and Westside, Mrs. J.C. Voelm.

The individual homemaker has the spotlight as far as the home demonstration program and Mrs. Hall is concerned. As she visits the various clubs this month to preview the year's work, she begins by asking, "What are your wants? What are your problems? Would you like... a new car? A new kitchen appliance? More confidence in how you raise your children? More knowledge as to how to stretch the family dollar?"

All the clubs will be emphasizing consumer competence and home management in their 1972-73 program. Their first program, presented by Mrs. Hall, the agent, is "Resources—Keys to Power."

"Know Yourself and Your Food Habits" will be presented by Foods Leaders in each club in October. A county-wide special interest program on "Festive Foods" by Home Service Advisers of the Southwestern Public Service Co. will be demonstrated October 26 in the Farm Bureau Building.

The November program, "Shopping Sense," is by the county agent, who also talks to clubs in February on "Beware of Being Fed a Line."

Clothing leaders will present a program on "Sewing Threads" in March, which is followed by a program in April by the agent on "The Art of Managing Your Money." The May program will be by the club foods leaders on "Be Smart About Cookware."

Besides the regular meetings mentioned, the clubs will have THDA Committee programs and creative arts, health, tours, luncheons, and family picnics.

"Members decide what their group will study," the home demonstration agent said. They participate in discussions and community projects sponsored by the club, plan recreation and even teach lessons.

"Dues aren't required, so cost is minimal," she added. "The major investment is time to learn and share new information."

New information covers discovering what's new for your home and family, learning the "how to's" of homemaking plus exploring what you're interested in. Information also comes from educational research resources of Texas A&M University, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and other universities, agencies and industries through Mrs. Hall's office.

She pointed out that homemakers don't have to belong to a club to join learning activities. Short courses, workshops, tours, meetings at area, precinct and county levels, are open to the public.

If interested in joining a home economics group or home demonstration club, women may contact the local Extension office at Room 101 at the Courthouse in Canyon, or call 655-3341.

With 35 referrals received so far and expectations of others to come, Meals on Wheels volunteer workers are pushing ahead with preliminary tasks aimed at expediting the program in Canyon.

At the same time, a number of organizations in Canyon have gone on record in the past month supporting Meals on Wheels, and some of their donations have been turned over to Dr. Ples Harper, treasurer.

Another note of progress has been added by the acquisition of a telephone number: 655-9862.

The formal organization of Meals on Wheels awaits finalization of the charter, held up on technicalities regarding the name. The official name of the program is expected to be Meals on Wheels of Canyon, Inc.

As soon as the charter, now being approved by the Secretary of State for Texas, has been received in Canyon, another meeting will be called to repeat endorsement of the directors voted upon Sept. 27. The name of Dr. David Miller has been added to the list of future directors which includes Mrs. Betty Holcomb, Dr. Ples Harper, and the Rev. J. Frank Peery.

Coordinators urge all elderly persons, regardless of income, who are over 60 and unable to prepare meals or shop for food to fill out referral slips for Meals on Wheels. Persons do not have to be indigent to qualify, according to chairman of the referrals committee, Mrs. Richard Jackson.

"Volunteers are still needed to staff all of the committees except the referrals committee," stated Mrs. Betty Markham, one of the three coordinators.

A recipient interview committee, headed by Mrs. Evelyn Frieze, will begin this week interviewing referrals to select those most in need of receiving the service offered by Meals on Wheels. At the last organizational meeting it was decided to begin with service to six persons and expand the number as funds and volunteers permit.

The coordinators themselves—Mrs. Kate Gamble, Mrs. Peggy Smallwood, and Mrs. Markham—have been unofficially estimating the cost of the program but have come up with no firm figure yet. They are surveying the cost of the food, the preparation, and equipment such as the two trays required by each recipient, estimated at $14 each. In addition, certain administrative costs, including telephone and stationary, are being considered.

The trucks or vehicles for delivering the hot meals to confined persons will be furnished on a volunteer basis, said Mrs. Markham. A driver's volunteer committee has been set up with Mrs. Margaret Underwood as chairman.

The food service committee, under the leadership of Mrs. Louella Patterson, has been surveying facilities and expenses for preparing the meals. Guided by the possibility that many elderly may require special diets, they have made inquiries at the WTSU Cafeteria, Taylor and Cooper food markets, and Neblett Memorial Hospital.

Another committee, the volunteer's service committee headed by Dr. Ruth Lowes, is making plans to furnish the elderly with special services such as transportation to doctor or dentist appointments.

Although not all Meals on Wheels programs offer such a service, Canyon's group will make available emergency delivery service to recipients, according to plans of an emergency service committee, now headed by Mrs. L.S. Johnston. Part of their problems will be to line up vehicles that can operate in periods of severe weather, such as blizzards.

Generating facts, fellowship and fun for homemakers is the job of Mrs. Becky Hall, Randall County Home Demonstration Agent, pictured here in her office, Room 101 of the Courthouse.

WT Art Friends To Seek Members

The Friends of Fine Arts of West Texas State University today launches a new membership drive to strengthen its support of fine arts activities at the institution.

Spearheading this year's drive, which will continue through Oct. 7, is Wales Madden, prominent Amarillo attorney and civic leader.

Created three years ago with the goal of providing "more and better arts for the Panhandle," the non-profit corporation has gone far in realizing many of its dreams in terms of scholarships and endowment programs.

Memberships in the Friends of Fine Arts are open to all Panhandle area persons at minimum annual contribution of $5, says Dr. John Green, chairman of the School of Fine Arts. All funds are tax-deductible and are deposited through the fiscal office of the university.

Membership contributions will be used to fund three major projects—a scholarship program for talented students in art, music, speech and theatre; a faculty-performance series, and an artist-in-residence program.

The Faculty Performance Series, successfully initiated last fall, provides at no cost to area civic and arts groups, cultural programs in music, art, drama and speech presented by the University's artist-faculty.

The artist-in-residence program, also launched last year, brings to the campus each year a noted figure in one of the four major arts fields to confer with students on opportunities in the fine arts and give public performances in their various fields.

Last year, the program brought actress Celeste Holm to the University. Featured this year is famed opera buffo Gimi Beni, who will be in residence for 12 days in November to lecture, conduct master classes and perform the title role in the WT Opera Workshop Production of Donizetti's "Don Pasquale."

Members of the Friends of Fine Arts receive complimentary tickets to all drama and musical productions presented at the University, as well as invitations to private receptions, such as those for visiting artists. Members also receive monthly newsletters to keep abreast of all art happenings on the campus.

Since its inception, membership has grown to more than 180 people. This year's officers are Max Motley of Amarillo, chairman; Vera Woford of Plainview, vice-chairman; Marie Lenau of Muleshoe, secretary; Aubrey Steele of Pampa, executive committee member, and H.R. Sulton of Canyon, executive committee member.

Canyon Study Club Outlines Projects

Canyon Study Club considered a number of civic projects and heard speaker Dr. Robert Burton, head of the anthropology and geology department at WTSU, at their first regular meeting Monday night, Sept. 19, in the coffee room at the First National Bank.

The meeting was preceded by a salad supper. Hostesses were Mrs. Treasure Brasher, Mrs. Joan Hamblen, Mrs. Delores O'Connor, and Mrs. Kathy Kenrick.

"A Gala Evening of Games" was one of the important matters taken up in the business meeting, conducted by Mrs.

Susan Lundy, president. The study club planned to participate in the event, scheduled for Dec. 2 as a joint venture by all federated clubs in Canyon with proceeds to go to the Opportunity Plan.

Members were reminded of the Top of Texas Board Meeting, Oct. 19, in Stratford, and the Texas Federated Meeting, Oct. 10, 11, and 12 in Abilene to be attended by delegates Mrs. Lila Vars, Mrs. Ella Brown, and Mrs. Lundy.

The Halloween Carnival committee, headed by Mrs. Sharon Brown, announced they would have posters in town by Oct. 10, publicizing the event.

Dr. Robert Burton, talking on "Geology and Genesis," dispelled the idea of conflict between the scientific and biblical views of creation. Science, he said, answers the question "how" and the Bible answers the question "why."

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Linda Cates, 3203 Linda Lane.

Homecoming At Happy Set Friday

Happy's first football team members will be special guests during homecoming festivities for Happy High School Friday.

The class of 1922 will celebrate their 50th anniversary during the day's activities.

The class of 1947 will celebrate their 25th anniversary.

The district champion girls basketball team from 1952 will also be honored during the day.

Activities begin at 1 p.m. Friday with registration at the high school entrance.

From 2-3 p.m., a program, pep rally and business session are slated.

Former students will be honored with a buffet supper in the school cafeteria at 5:30 p.m.

Happy's 1972 version of the Cowboys will try to extend their winning streak to three games as they go up against Amherst in an 8 p.m. tiff.

Following the game at 10 p.m., coffee will be served the visitors in the cafeteria.

Our World

Do Americans Deserve McGovern?

By ANN BROWN

Almost every comment one hears—both public and private—expresses confidence in the reelection of the President, McGovern, they say, hasn't a ghost of a chance. That's exactly what they said about Harry Truman.

Nature has a miraculous way of giving people what they deserve. (If not in this world—in the next.) McGovern is the epitome of all the inconsistencies the hippies, yuppies, and other arch liberals have been promulgating for years. They deserve him.

But if they get him, the rest of us get him, too. Do good Americans deserve McGovern?

Good Americans are getting many things now they don't feel they deserve. But eternal vigilance is still the price of liberty. If "good" Americans want to keep quiet and "let George do it," then they should not complain about what George does.

Our Country is already rife with suicidal policies. We protect criminals at the expense of their victims.

The law forbids the execution of the most vicious criminal but sanctions the wholesale slaughter of innocent, helpless, unborn babies.

We lower our defenses and actually nurture the enemy which has sworn to "bury" us.

Public policies tend to destroy the rich, and the productive; and perpetuate the poor, and the unproductive.

The "ecologists" want to ban pesticides, one of the great boons to humanity. The real question is, shall we eat the food or let the bugs have it? Without pesticides there would be no apples without worms, and even wormy ones would be scarce and expensive.

(Next they may want to ban germicides.)

The same philosophers who prefer pests to people want to hide our geniuses and exalt our mentally retarded.

We add billions to our national debt, and tax parents out of their homes to buy buses to destroy the neighborhood schools and cheat our children out of an education.

There is an increasing clamor for the government to assume the responsibility of the parents through day-care centers and child development programs.

Time was when a man could not divorce his wife except for desertion or adultery. Now he can divorce her any time he pleases, and abandon his children at will. Recently a man was sent to the penitentiary, who left in his wake 6 divorced wives, four of whom had children.

Deficit government spending creates inflation, which has forced many unwilling mothers out of the home to work. This has contributed to the epidemic of broken homes and delinquent children.

Financial pressures, easy divorce, and easy abortion are making tragic inroads on American homes. As goes the homes, so goes the nation.

Self preservation is the first law of life. So what happens to an individual or a nation that culminates in the abnormal act of self destruction?

First, there must be a conviction that the future is hopeless, and a total disregard for the others involved. Of course, the suicide is usually too physically or emotionally ill to see things realistically. How realistic is our national viewpoint?

America with all her shortcomings is still the greatest nation in the world, and many neighbors look to us for guidance and support. We are approaching the crossroads; which way shall we go?

It looks as if all our nation needs to self destruct is a President who is willing to push the button. Are we going to let George do it?

There have been more than a few complaints about the recent raises meted out to employees—professors and custodians, alike—at West Texas State University.

Many expected a 6.8 per cent raise, and most got less than that.

One associate professor said his raise worked out to less than $5 per month.

Now, several people in the maintenance department have decided to take some action to improve their lot.

Currently, their lot is not so hot.

As today's story about the maintenance department indicates, feelings are running at high pitch in the department.

And, their lot is not unusual.

A check with Ray Downing, head of maintenance at Texas Tech, revealed that his employees make as little as WTSU's do. Custodians in Lubbock make from $295 per month to about $380 per month. A carpenter can make from $6060 annually to $7740, while a mechanic can start at $585 a month.

If the WTSU maintenance employees thought their situation unlivable, they should be working for Downing.

He viewed the legislature's raise not as a cost-of-living adjustment, but as money which could be used for merit raises.

His employees will receive a raise on their anniversary date of employment, and then only if they deserve it.

The real problems with the raises is the way the appropriated money was given the state's universities.

One member of the legislative appropriations committee said the money was given the universities as a lump sum and not with instructions that everyone receive a 6.8 per cent raise.

The American Party is trying a little political blackmail in its effort to get on the November general election ballot.

Party officials have threatened to "swamp" the polls on election day with write-in candidates.

After the showing the Party made in the Panhandle area in an effort two weeks ago to gather signatures for petitions to get on the ballot, I really doubt that too many people are going to be willing to throw away their votes to write-in the name of an American Party candidate up here.

The Party tried too little too late this year, and they're going to be faced with the same problem in 1976 since they aren't on the ballot this year.

One Randall County Democrat who returned last week from that party's convention downstate, said he is becoming increasingly more disillusioned with Dolph Briscoe, his party's candidate for governor.

"He just can't make up his mind," the Democrat said.

National convention viewers got that same impression as they watched the Texas' delegation shenanigans at Miami.

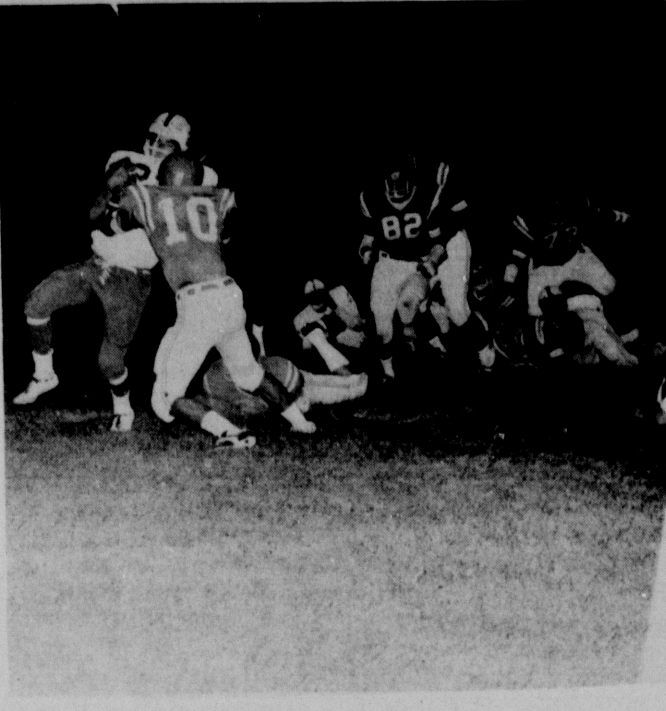

If there's one thing Texas doesn't need these days, it's a man of indecision and capriciousness.

Canyon's Eagles look stronger each week. They're gaining experience and some smoothness of operation.

While the season opener loss to Spearman was a miserable experience for the Eagles, they can hold their heads much higher about Friday night's loss to the Longhorns.

Canyon will probably be in contention for the district title. These games against AAAA teams are taking their toll in statistics but they're doing wonders for the play of the local team.

Don't give up. There's still a long season ahead.

A Canyon receiver pulls down an Ed Lair pass during action Friday night and is immediately met by Caprock defenders. The Eagles lost 14-3. See story page 1.

Meandering with Margo 'Ugliest Dog' Contest Coming

By MARGO FIELDS

Amarillo does have some spunk left, and a city commissioner from our northern neighbors proved it Tuesday night.

During a discussion about the Amarillo hospital district, someone noted that the Lubbock paper called a proposed hospital facility down there "an ivory tower."

This description ruffled some folks in Amarillo especially if Amarillo might help pay for it indirectly.

A commissioner subtly quipped, "We must remember that an ivory tower to Lubbock is only three stories high."

We are sponsoring the Ugliest Dog Contest next Saturday, and by the looks of some of the pups running around loose in Canyon there should be a crowd.

The contest has evoked such sparkling headline suggestions as, "The Canyon News Goes To The Dogs," "Ugliness is Beautiful," etc., etc., etc.

Sally and Susan are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Flenniken, northwest of Canyon.

Driving Program And Demonstration Held At CHS

A safe driving program was held Thursday morning at Canyon High School through cooperation of the Texas Farm Bureau and its safety department.

The estimated 700 students and teachers heard Ben B. Bullard of Waco, the bureau's assistant safety director, explain many aspects of safe and unsafe driving.

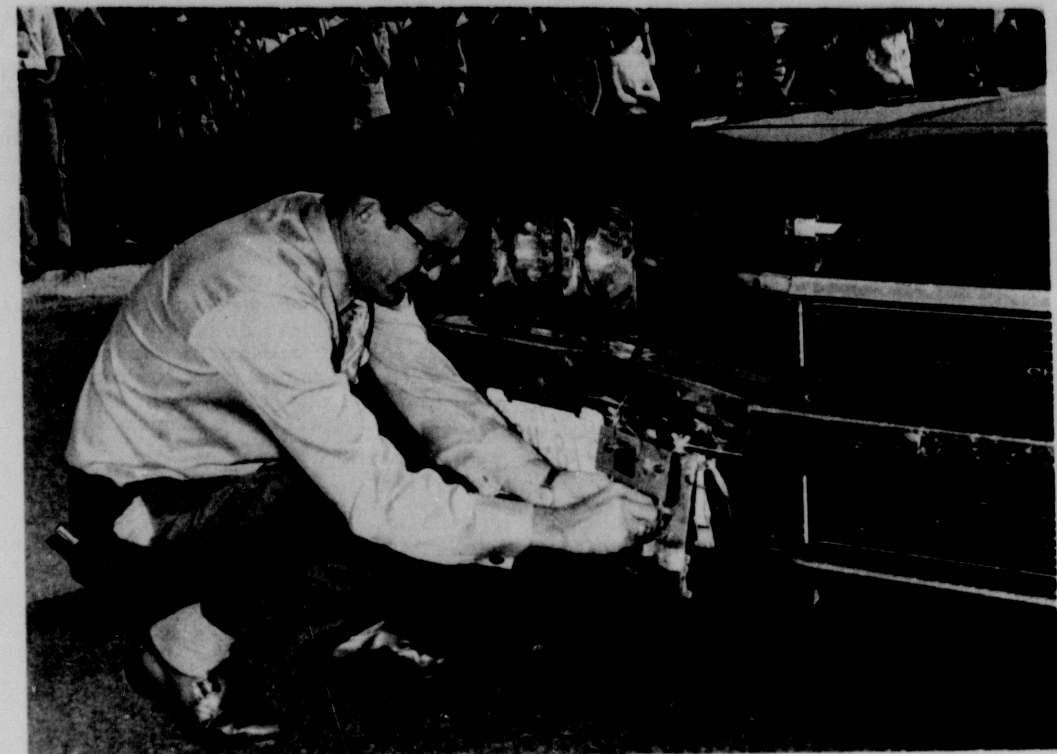

Bullard told the group that drivers had a "social responsibility" as well as a legal responsibility and cited "excessive speed" as the greatest single cause of highway accidents. "When drivers know the true facts and base their driving on those facts, highway accidents will drop sharply," said Bullard in pointing to accident statistics.

A movie, A Matter of Judgement, was shown and it centered on the driver's need to concentrate on what he or she is doing as well as knowing the laws and obeying them. The film depicted several examples of vehicles going out of control and speed was the contributing factor in each.

Following the movie, the students gathered outside and saw a dramatic example of speed being the major factor in stopping ability.

Driving a specially equipped car furnished by the Farm Bureau, two students and a member of the faculty took part in tests designed to show stopping distances required at speeds of 20, 30, and 40 miles-per-hour.

The car offered an electronic cartridge firing device on its front bumper. When the first bullet-like shot was fired by Ben Bullard of Waco, a safety representative with the Texas Farm Bureau, loading up a special shell firing device used Thursday in a safety demonstration at Canyon High School. The bumper mounted unit fires a blast of yellow powder onto the street marking distances in a braking test.

200th Birthday Celebration Begins Saturday at WTSU

West Texas State University launches its four-year observance of America's 200th birthday Saturday with a symposium on oral history featuring three eminent authorities in the field.

The event is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the library of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum.

Featured participants include Joseph H. Cash, Duke research professor of history and director of the American Indian Research Project at the University of South Dakota; Joe B. Frantz, professor of history and director of the University of Texas oral history program; and Benedict Zobrist, director of the Harry S. Truman Presidential Library at Independence, Mo.

The project is the first offering by the Texas College and University American Revolution Bicentennial Committee, Region I.

The committee, which includes WTSU, Clarendon College and Amarillo College, is directing the regional bicentennial celebration, including a wide spectrum of events, cultural displays, special courses and lectures and seminars dealing with various aspects of American life.

The purpose of the symposium, says Dr. Duane Guy, WTSU history department head, is to seek advice from the authorities on launching an intensive oral history program for the Panhandle area.

One of the richest sources of Panhandle historical material, says Guy, comes from the mouths of the "old timers" who still harbor recollections of the region's pioneering days.

The oral history project is designed as an attempt to chronicle the stories and personal accounts of pioneering residents while they are still living, Guy says.

He adds that the program will be initiated within the next two years.

Guy is serving as chairman of the regional committee as well as being WTSU's representative on the state steering committee which guides and partially funds the statewide bicentennial effort.

Reservations for the noon luncheon of the symposium may be made through the History Department, West Texas State University, Canyon, Texas 79015. A $2 charge for the meal is payable at the door.

Bullard from the car's passenger seat, the drivers were instructed to apply the brakes. A second shot was fired when the brakes were applied and the third went off when the stop was accomplished. A blast of yellow powder shot from the cartridges marked on the street the exact spot that each phase of the test occurred. The distances between the spots were then measured, giving the reaction time and the actual stopping time.

Roy Markham, a senior, made the test run at 20 MPH and recorded a reaction distance of eight feet, nine inches. His braking distance of 16 feet, three inches gave him a total stopping distance of 25 feet.

Teddi Crager, also a senior, reacted within a distance of 13 feet, four inches. With a braking distance of 15 feet, one inch, her total elapsed distance before stopping was 28 feet, five inches. Her driving speed was also 20 MPH.

A teacher, Leonard Kent, made a test run at 30 MPH and reacted within 15 feet, seven inches. Another 57 feet, six inches were required to bring the car to a halt, the total distance being 73 feet, one inch.

According to Bullard, the car was moving slightly more than 30 MPH when the driver was signaled to begin stopping.

At 40 MPH, Kent reacted by applying the brakes at 28 feet, one inch. After a locked skid of 72 feet, three inches, the car stopped. The total distance had been just over 100 feet. The skid marks also indicated that the vehicle was beginning to turn sideways, the initial indication that control is being lost.

Bullard said his department presents an average of 100 driving safety programs each year. The program began 16 years ago and has been used each year since except for a period from 1963 to 1966 when a new fire safety program was instigated.

In addition to the driving and fire programs, the Farm Bureau also offers films and demonstrations on electrical shock and tractor safety. The tractor program was presented to the Canyon High School student body last year, Bullard said.

Also at the school Thursday were Joe Turpin, president of the Randall County Farm Bureau, and members of the Canyon Police Department.

Outdoor portraits are the finest in photography, and Fred Potter Photography of Amarillo is making that talent a specialty.

Vicki Potter, a partner with her husband in the business, has just returned from Dallas where she attended a seminar in outdoor photography sponsored by Meisel Photochrome Corp.

"I learned so much about this field while in Dallas, and we have been using many of the techniques in our business for some time," she explains. "Now we can really get into this on a full scale."

The couple will open their new office facilities in Cornado Shopping Center at 35th and Georgia soon. Meanwhile they are reached by calling 352-5873. They operate by appointment only. "so we can give the proper time to each assignment."

Another specialty of the photography studio is wedding pictures. They charge nothing for mileage to Canyon and bridal picture packages start at $69.95.

Party Pics is another service that the Potter Studio provides. Party Pics can be of any kind of group including baseball and football teams, clubs as well as parties. One week's notice is required. There is no charge for going out to the requested location or for shooting the pictures and there is no obligation.

Pictures taken Friday through Sunday will have the previews back by Wednesday. The pictures are printed on a silk finish paper and captions on pictures will be offered free of charge.

"We are still the only company in Texas that can make large posters or blowups," notes Fred. The 2 1/2 ft. by 3 ft. poster sells for $6 and Potter also offers a poster about twice that size.

Posters are made from negatives or from other pictures. Call 352-5873 and make an appointment with Vicki and Fred for a beautiful outdoor portrait, or for a wedding coming up in your family.

Far East Tables Sport American-Grown Wheat

American wheat farmers are helping put the majority of the bread on tables in Japanese households.

While the consumption of rice in Japan has stabilized over the past few years, the consumption of bread and other wheat products is on the rise.

Four Japanese flour millers and two officials of milling associations told West Texas State University students and professors Thursday morning Japan is dependent on the importation of U.S. wheat to meet the increasing demand for products in that country.

The six are touring the United States sponsored by the Western Wheat Associates, Inc., Great Plains Wheat, Inc., and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, as part of a market development program.

In introducing the Japanese guests, Bill Nelson of the Great Plains Wheat, Inc., said the four millers "represent direct purchases of $200 million a year of U.S. wheat."

The executive director of the Japanese Flour Millers Association, Masayoshi Chisaka, said there are currently 240 flour milling companies in Japan operating 286 mills.

caught the Rams off guard, Mayfield said, "We probably should have used them more. Our defense perked up in the second quarter and we seemed to be tackling much harder," he concluded.

If the offense took advantage of breaks, it was the rock-hard Buff defense that set them up.

The final three Buff scores of the game were set up by the defensive unit.

With 11:01 remaining in the game, and with the Buffs leading 19-14, the Buff defenders held their ground as the Rams tried for elbow room.

The ball went over on downs and the offensive unit wasted no time in scoring on a Quarterback Mike Wartes pass to Brown for 67 yards.

An Arcadio Rivera kick made the score 26-14 in favor of the West Texans.

In less than two minutes, the Buffs were back on the scoreboard, this time on a one-yard run by Billy Pritchett, fullback. The score was set up by a Ram pass interception on their own 12 by linebacker Steve Rogers.

Again Rivera's kick was good and the score with less than seven minutes remaining stood at 33-14 in favor of the Buffs.

The play which set up the final Buff score came with less than two minutes remaining on the clock as the Buff defenders once again held their ground and forced the Rams to punt.

Driving 78 yards in six plays, WTSU's stand-in Quarterback Ron Leach passed to Scott Doores for an 18-yard touchdown as four zeroes clicked on the scoreboard clock.

The Buffs' first half scores were made by Halfback Jimmy Lisle on a two-yard run and a Carl Brown reverse for eight yards.

West Texas whopped the Rams on more than the scoreboard as the Buffs racked up 450 total yards rushing compared to 326 mustered by the Rams.

Cowboys Roll By Whiteface

The Happy Cowboys erupted for 566 total yards Friday night and exploded over the Whiteface Leopards 50-0. The opposition was held to a total of 25 yards by the 200-pound Happy defensive line.

Chris Pearson rolled up an impressive 232 yards and was followed by teammate Gary Looney who picked up 113 yards. Pearson and Looney each tallied three times during the Cowboy uprising.

End Gary Barrett picked up another touchdown by scampering into the end zone with a 32 yard pass tossed by quarterback Mark Hargrave. The other Cowboy score came on a 15-yard run by halfback Teddy Offield.

Coach Robert Criswell said after the game that his line, both on offense and defense, "played better than any time since I have been here."

The regional jail facilities would be primarily for the minor felon or major misdemeanor offender and for felons who are awaiting the outcome of appeals.

"The long-range plan is to make them a part of the state correctional system," McPherson said.

Just little more than 300 yards of the Buff rushing total were on the ground while 106 were made by the Rams on the ground.

Wartes made 187 yards passing while leading ground gainer during the outing was Lisle with 95 yards on 11 carries.

Halfback Cole Fraley made 67 yards in 14 carries and Pritchett made 40 yards on 19 carries.

Leading rusher for the Rams was halfback Rod Blackford with 29 yards on 13 carries.

C.S.U. coach Jerry Wampfler said after the game the Buffs had beaten his team in every department.

"They wanted it more than we did," he claimed. "They played a real fine game. They were much better tonight than we had seen them on film."

The visiting coach said WT receivers had beaten his defensive backs at least six times.

"They were quicker and hit harder than we thought they would, but mostly they just wanted to win more than we did," he said.

on reports in the news media.

Instead, few pay increases matched the 6.8 per cent figure for maintenance employees and most increases were well under that figure.

"It was 4.8 per cent and less for most of the people," said one employee.

"People were expecting it (the 6.8 per cent raise) and they didn't come by it," another said. "This just added gasoline to the fire."

Salary figures included in the 1972-73 budget approved during the summer by WTSU regents indicate fewer than 10 of 89 full-time maintenance employees received a 6.8 per cent increase in salary.

Several received 6.0 per cent increases, but the majority received less than a 6 per cent raise.

For the employees seeking unionization, the failure of the university to provide the anticipated pay hike was simply the epitome of other existing problems in the maintenance department.

They cited low salaries as the main concern of most of the employees.

"The custodial and ground maintenance people are more underpaid than we are," said one employee. "I don't know how some of those boys put beans on the table. Our salaries have been upgraded some but compared to other departments here we just don't compare."

Budget figures indicate that salaries in the building maintenance section of the department range from a low for 12 months of $4,800 to a high of $9,900. Average salary is around $6,000.

In the custodial division of the department, salaries are much lower, ranging from a high of more than $6,000 to a low of $4,560. The majority of the custodians make between $4,500 and $5,500 annually.

Groundskeeper salaries range from a low of $3,000 to a high of $4,560. The majority received a 5.6 per cent raise on Sept. 1.

Boone agreed that salaries for his department employees are low.

But, he said his hands are tied to provide an increase which isn't appropriated by the legislature.

Salaries may not be the total problem in the maintenance department.

One employee, admitting it would be hard to improve working conditions, said there is a feeling among the department's employees "that we're at the mercy of a lot of people and we don't have much to say about it."

He said he feels the maintenance department has no real representation in dealing with university officials over money matters.

"I think we're a bunch of orphans," he said. "I don't think anybody really wants us."

Eagles...

The Eagles, after picking up a Longhorn fumble on the Caprock 36-yard line, had driven to the 18 in anticipation of scoring.

On a third down play, Lair fumbled a hand-off to his runningback and Caprock recovered on their own 24.

The fumble recovery seemed to inspire the Longhorns as they drove undaunted from deep in their own territory to paydirt.

The Caprock score came with 30 seconds left in the game. Canyon tallied 157 total yards in the game with 61 yards credited to the passing game. Lair attempted 20 passes, completed seven and had two intercepted.

Moore was leading ground gainer for the Eagles with 42 yards in 15 carries.

The Longhorns made 267 total yards during the game with 217 of them on the ground. Quarterback Ream passed only 6 times and completed four.

Valesquez made 73 yards on the ground to lead Longhorn rushers in 16 carries. Herring made 48 yards in 10 carries.

The Eagles tallied 11 first downs while Caprock made 17 first downs.

Canyon, 0-3 for the season, goes against another AAAA school next weekend when they meet Hereford at Hereford on Friday night.

man. And his explanation was similar in wording to at least a dozen other Tower supporters.

"I might not vote for Tower if Price, Purcell, Connally or somebody with know-how was running against him," offered a South Amarillo woman. "But I just don't know about that other guy (Sanders)."

From the persons polled, it was indicated that each felt that U.S. Senators and Representatives did not have the impact on everyday matters as do the president and state and local officeholders.

In the final analysis it was, according to the survey, Price winning in Randall County over Purcell for the House of Representatives. For the Senate seat, Tower by a flood.

Freshman Bufs Down Cisco 17-7

West Texas State's defensive-minded Buffalo freshman football team opened its season Friday night with a 17-7 victory over the Cisco Junior College Wranglers.

The young Buffaloes held the Wranglers to 91 yards rushing and 17 yards passing during the game.

Cisco's only score came in the 4th quarter when an Eddie Richardson punt was partly deflected and end Louie Hall picked it up on the Buffalo 28 and scampered for a touchdown.

West Texas pushed for a touchdown in the 1st quarter after recovering a Cisco fumble at the Wrangler 25 yard line. Canyon's Mike Podzemny bounced on the loose ball at that point to set up the scoring thrust.

On the sixth play, Eddie Richardson bounced off several tacklers and ran the last 12 yards to give the young Buffs a 6-0 lead in the 1st quarter. Bruce Wyre converted to make it 7-0. Midway through the 2nd quarter, Kelvin Caesar picked off a Cisco pass and raced 96 yards to score West Texas' other touchdown.

Canyon's newly formed Jaycees will meet at 8 p.m. Monday at Canyon Community Center for another organizational meeting.

A Buff fumble at the WT 12 yard line had set Cisco up in scoring position prior to Caesar's interception.

While the young Buffs lost four fumbles, they balanced it out by intercepting four Cisco passes.

The final Buff marker came in the 3rd quarter when Wyre was true on a 33 yard field goal attempt.

MORE ON THIS SHOW NEXT WEEK!

An energetic 28-year-old professor describing himself as "vitaly interested in the music of today and tomorrow" will take his place on the podium as director of the WTSU Symphony Orchestra this year.

Michael Matesky, who in his short career has amassed more musical and academic accolades than most in his field acquire in a lifetime, will assume the direction of the group and serve on the music department faculty as assistant professor of music.

He replaces Brian Walton in both positions, as well as in posts of assistant director and principal cellist with the Amarillo Symphony, and cellist in the university's Faculty Trio.

Matesky says that the "egghead" image of academicians is rapidly vanishing as a "high sense of social responsibility creeps into the old ivory tower of colleges and universities."

"As an artist and teacher," says Matesky, "I feel a deep obligation to my generation both to musicians in the European tradition and such gifted artists as Bob Dylan, the Beatles, and James Brown."

An astute observer of the contemporary music scene, Matesky has traveled widely throughout the United States and Europe observing the latest trends in music.

"American popular music experienced a creative surge in the middle 60s, reaching its height in the period that gave us 'Woodstock,' 'The Graduate,' and 'Easy Rider.' Much of its success was due to its sheer power; that tremendous decibel level, as well as sometimes beautiful melody."

"In all of us that went through the rock experience, there developed a sense that there was nothing outside our own funky rock world. It was a self-centered attitude, a feeling that what we were listening to on the radio was the whole musical universe."

"In Europe, I found a more tradition-filled atmosphere with more emphasis on the classics. The program content of the pop AM stations, say, in France, seems more symmetrically put together and love-oriented—and, of course, in Italy, more concerned with the passions."

"We in America may yet be influenced by the old Hemingway-Bogart tradition of super-masculinity, and our music reflects a hard counterpoint between machismo and romance."

In the weeks since Matesky arrived at the university, he has developed a highly ambitious roster of plans for the orchestra and music department.

Already on the boards for this year is an "Orchestra Invitational Day" in which three or four outstanding high school orchestras in the Panhandle Plains area will be invited for a day of performances and clinics, as well as a tour of the university and introduction to its fine arts program.

Also in the planning stages is a "concerto program" in which the most talented musicians in the entire university will compete for solo appearances with the WT Symphony Orchestra.

The goal of the concerto program, says Matesky, is to give young talent the opportunity for solo performance as well as to improve both the quality of student performance and the general community cultural milieu.

His performance credits include appearances with the Compton Civic Symphony, the Idyllwild Tour Symphony, the University of the Pacific Orchestra, Stockton Symphony and Northern Arizona Symphony.

He has conducted the Idyllwild Tour Orchestra both at USC and over the BBC, and also directed the University of the Pacific Chamber Orchestra, the University of the Pacific Northern Wasatch Youth Orchestra and various chamber orchestras at UW.

A former member of the Pacific String Quartet, Matesky has performed as cellist or conductor throughout the United States and Europe, including Los Angeles, Seattle, Oslo, Stockholm, Copenhagen, London, Geneva and numerous other places.

Buff Boosters Hear Campbell, See Drake Film

About 30 members attended the weekly meeting of the Buffalo Boosters Club Thursday night and heard assistant coach Jim Campbell discuss the fumble-ridden loss to Drake University.

The group reviewed the first half offensive action and the defensive efforts of the complete game.

Campbell said the Buffs were expecting tough competition from Colorado State over the weekend but he did not make any predictions regarding the possible outcome.

The session broke up early so that members and Coach Campbell could move on to the stadium where Coach Gene Mayfield was drilling his charges under the lights in preparation for the Saturday night tilt against Colorado State.

Club president David West said the WT group would hold its next meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m., and will see highlights of the WTSU-Colorado State game. Members are being sought, he added.

Calvary Church Ballots Today

Calvary Baptist Church will ballot during the Sunday worship today on a five-member Minister Committee to be charged with responsibility for finding a Minister of Education-Music-Youth-Evangelism.

The fifteen persons receiving the largest number of votes in the morning balloting will then be voted on in the evening service today in order to narrow the number to five.

One of the persons on the committee must be a young man or woman between the age of 15 and 25, according to the Rev. Mel Hardin, pastor.

Frost Pays Early Visit To The Canyon Area

There may not have been frost on the pumpkin Friday morning, but there was on metal, glass, plastic and similar objects.

It wasn't quite cold enough to require chopping open watering tanks or dog bowls but for the first time this season car windshields needed attention because of the cold. In fact, it could be said that it was the first frost of the "summer" since the early morning ice came some nine hours before the official close of summer.

According to the weather bureau, the temperature hit 40 degrees at 8 a.m. Friday, tying the record low for Sept. 22. There were reports of lower temperatures in the immediate Canyon area, some as low as the mid-30's.

Kansas Delegation Tours Randall Co. Feedyard

The Randall County Feedyard Thursday hosted some forty business, industrial, civic and agricultural leaders from Wichita, Kans.

Arriving by chartered bus, the group toured the cattle feeding facility during the afternoon. It was their last stop on a three-day, four city airborne visit to Colorado, New Mexico and Texas.

The AIRMADA, flying in 15 private planes, had been in Colorado Springs and Denver on Tuesday and Wednesday and in Albuquerque earlier in the day Thursday.

The Randall County visit was made after a luncheon meeting with city leaders in Amarillo.

According to a tour spokesman, the group is sponsored by the Wichita Chamber of Commerce and makes tours to different areas of the country in order to become better acquainted with other area leaders. The group at the same time promotes aircraft manufacturing, Wichita's leading industry.

The group departed Randall County's Tradewinds Airport enroute to Wichita following the feedlot visit.

Canyon Firemen Work To Make Their City Safe

The City of Canyon is proud of its volunteer fire department and, apparently, the members of the department are proud of Canyon.

According to a report made to the city commission Monday night by Deputy Fire Chief Joe Rice, the 31-member department is unexcelled in spirit and efficiency when compared to those in cities of similar size.

"We have ten men on the waiting list... and its the biggest and best list we ever had," said Rice. In speaking of the interest shown by department members, Rice said that everyone wanted to go to a recent fire conference held in Hereford. "We had to turn them down."

The deputy chief added that the department boasts 600 to 700 years combined experience and that fire-drill attendance runs from 90 to 95 percent.

The department has begun a training program for men on the waiting list and for newer members of the department. Rice said the program was experimental now and would probably be modified after the first of next year. He said that fire drills were difficult to plan in a department made up of veteran firemen with years of experience and others relatively new to the force. Asst. Chief Robert Rogers is in charge of the program.

In accounting for the volunteer groups interest in the department, Rice cited "exceptionally good leadership."

He said the assistant chiefs and lieutenants were doing an outstanding job.

Within the next two or three weeks, the Canyon Fire Department will become the first in Texas to use a new "manifold system" designed to give firefighters a maximum amount of water within a minimum length of time.

The device, which cost about $1,300, was bought out of the volunteer group's fund, Rice said, with the total membership taking part in the unanimous vote.

The firemen's fund is money paid by the city to each fireman at the rate of $2 per fire or fire drill. "Of course the men never see the money," commented Rice. "It goes into the fund and is used to buy equipment and to pay for our banquet and other social events."

The new hose device will allow one pumper truck to drop three water lines as it approaches a fire. In addition to those three lines, two other lines will be unrolled from the moving truck at the same time, making it "look like a big spider." The tri-hose mechanism can be modified to allow the use of seven hoses from a single truck, the deputy chief said.

The manifold system is being installed for use against major fires such as at schools, apartment complexes, churches and other large structures.

Many of the posters were on display at the bank parking lot Saturday and others will be distributed throughout Canyon during the week.

In the afternoon, three bike racing events were held around the square with entrants ranging in age from six to 14.

In the event limited to regular bicycles, eight through 10 year olds competed in two-lap heats around the square. Boys and girls with 10-speed bikes took part in a 10-lap event and the open section, with any type bike making 20 laps, ended the racing.

The results of the races will appear in The Canyon News on Thursday.

Mrs. Hall, Home Demonstration Agent, Volunteer Group Plans For Meals Program Will Stress Consumer Competence

When swamped with family living problems, you can always count to 10 and hope they vanish, or you can join a home demonstration club.

"Home demonstration clubs are open to all homemakers who would like to learn better ways to tackle chores and improve both home and community life," Mrs. Becky Hall, county home demonstration agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

Mrs. Hall explained that the Extension Service sponsors the clubs as part of a statewide educational effort to bring the latest information to all families. Local clubs focus on the needs of homemakers in that particular county.

Randall County now has eight home demonstration clubs. The clubs and their presidents are Edgetown, Mrs. Max Bosley; Highland, Mrs. James Janssen;

Jowell, Mrs. Ervin Davis; Palisades, Mrs. Jill Moore; Palo Duro Rusk, Mrs. Wil Gunter; Pleasantview, Mrs. Robert Joe Rice; Sunnyhill, Mrs. Kenneth Danner; and Westside, Mrs. J.C. Voelm.

The individual homemaker has the spotlight as far as the home demonstration program and Mrs. Hall is concerned. As she visits the various clubs this month to preview the year's work, she begins by asking, "What are your wants? What are your problems? Would you like... a new car? A new kitchen appliance? More confidence in how you raise your children? More knowledge as to how to stretch the family dollar?"

All the clubs will be emphasizing consumer competence and home management in their 1972-73 program. Their first program, presented by Mrs. Hall, the agent, is "Resources—Keys to Power."

"Know Yourself and Your Food Habits" will be presented by Foods Leaders in each club in October. A county-wide special interest program on "Festive Foods" by Home Service Advisers of the Southwestern Public Service Co. will be demonstrated October 26 in the Farm Bureau Building.

The November program, "Shopping Sense," is by the county agent, who also talks to clubs in February on "Beware of Being Fed a Line."

Clothing leaders will present a program on "Sewing Threads" in March, which is followed by a program in April by the agent on "The Art of Managing Your Money." The May program will be by the club foods leaders on "Be Smart About Cookware."

Besides the regular meetings mentioned, the clubs will have THDA Committee programs and creative arts, health, tours, luncheons, and family picnics.

"Members decide what their group will study," the home demonstration agent said. They participate in discussions and community projects sponsored by the club, plan recreation and even teach lessons.

"Dues aren't required, so cost is minimal," she added. "The major investment is time to learn and share new information."

New information covers discovering what's new for your home and family, learning the "how to's" of homemaking plus exploring what you're interested in. Information also comes from educational research resources of Texas A&M University, the U.S. Department of Agriculture and other universities, agencies and industries through Mrs. Hall's office.

She pointed out that homemakers don't have to belong to a club to join learning activities. Short courses, workshops, tours, meetings at area, precinct and county levels, are open to the public.

If interested in joining a home economics group or home demonstration club, women may contact the local Extension office at Room 101 at the Courthouse in Canyon, or call 655-3341.

With 35 referrals received so far and expectations of others to come, Meals on Wheels volunteer workers are pushing ahead with preliminary tasks aimed at expediting the program in Canyon.

At the same time, a number of organizations in Canyon have gone on record in the past month supporting Meals on Wheels, and some of their donations have been turned over to Dr. Ples Harper, treasurer.

Another note of progress has been added by the acquisition of a telephone number: 655-9862.

The formal organization of Meals on Wheels awaits finalization of the charter, held up on technicalities regarding the name. The official name of the program is expected to be Meals on Wheels of Canyon, Inc.

As soon as the charter, now being approved by the Secretary of State for Texas, has been received in Canyon, another meeting will be called to repeat endorsement of the directors voted upon Sept. 27. The name of Dr. David Miller has been added to the list of future directors which includes Mrs. Betty Holcomb, Dr. Ples Harper, and the Rev. J. Frank Peery.

Coordinators urge all elderly persons, regardless of income, who are over 60 and unable to prepare meals or shop for food to fill out referral slips for Meals on Wheels. Persons do not have to be indigent to qualify, according to chairman of the referrals committee, Mrs. Richard Jackson.

"Volunteers are still needed to staff all of the committees except the referrals committee," stated Mrs. Betty Markham, one of the three coordinators.

Referral Form

We are making every effort to become acquainted with all persons over 60 years of age in our community who are unable to fix a hot well balanced meal once a day. Would you please fill out this form for anyone in your neighborhood who might qualify and return to: Meal on Wheels, P.O. Box 104, Canyon, Texas 79015.

WT Art Friends To Seek Members

The Friends of Fine Arts of West Texas State University today launches a new membership drive to strengthen its support of fine arts activities at the institution.

Spearheading this year's drive, which will continue through Oct. 7, is Wales Madden, prominent Amarillo attorney and civic leader.

Created three years ago with the goal of providing "more and better arts for the Panhandle," the non-profit corporation has gone far in realizing many of its dreams in terms of scholarships and endowment programs.

Memberships in the Friends of Fine Arts are open to all Panhandle area persons at minimum annual contribution of $5, says Dr. John Green, chairman of the School of Fine Arts. All funds are tax-deductible and are deposited through the fiscal office of the university.

Membership contributions will be used to fund three major projects—a scholarship program for talented students in art, music, speech and theatre; a faculty-performance series, and an artist-in-residence program.

The Faculty Performance Series, successfully initiated last fall, provides at no cost to area civic and arts groups, cultural programs in music, art, drama and speech presented by the University's artist-faculty.

The artist-in-residence program, also launched last year, brings to the campus each year a noted figure in one of the four major arts fields to confer with students on opportunities in the fine arts and give public performances in their various fields.

Last year, the program brought actress Celeste Holm to the University. Featured this year is famed opera buffo Gimi Beni, who will be in residence for 12 days in November to lecture, conduct master classes and perform the title role in the WT Opera Workshop Production of Donizetti's "Don Pasquale."

Members of the Friends of Fine Arts receive complimentary tickets to all drama and musical productions presented at the University, as well as invitations to private receptions, such as those for visiting artists. Members also receive monthly newsletters to keep abreast of all art happenings on the campus.

Since its inception, membership has grown to more than 180 people. This year's officers are Max Motley of Amarillo, chairman; Vera Wolford of Plainview, vice-chairman; Marie Lenau of Muleshoe, secretary; Aubrey Steele of Pampa, executive committee member, and H.R. Sulton of Canyon, executive committee member.

Kappa Delta Rush Begins Mon.

The arrival in this area today of Kappa Delta's national vice-president, Mrs. K.T. Gallagher, and collegiate advisor, Miss Susan Irion, will mark the beginning of the sorority's colonizing efforts on the campus of West Texas State University.

On Monday, Sept. 25, 6-8 p.m., Mrs. Gallagher will address interested students in the Activities Center ballroom, giving facts and background about her sorority. She will leave the Panhandle following the meeting, but Miss Irion will remain to direct Kappa Delta's rush week.

Kappa Delta sorority was founded at Longwood College, Farmville, Va., in 1897. Traditionally a southern sorority because of its origins, Kappa Delta now has 110 college chapters on campuses across the nation and numbers almost 75,000 members with 380 chartered alumnae associations.

Canyon Study Club Outlines Projects

Canyon Study Club considered a number of civic projects and heard speaker Dr. Robert Burton, head of the anthropology and geology department at WTSU, at their first regular meeting Monday night, Sept. 19, in the coffee room at the First National Bank.

The meeting was preceded by a salad supper. Hostesses were Mrs. Treasure Brasher, Mrs. Joan Hamblen, Mrs. Delores O'Connor, and Mrs. Kathy Kenrick.

"A Gala Evening of Games" was one of the important matters taken up in the business meeting, conducted by Mrs.

Susan Lundy, president. The study club planned to participate in the event, scheduled for Dec. 2 as a joint venture by all federated clubs in Canyon with proceeds to go to the Opportunity Plan.

Members were reminded of the Top of Texas Board Meeting, Oct. 19, in Stratford, and the Texas Federated Meeting, Oct. 10, 11, and 12 in Abilene to be attended by delegates Mrs. Lila Vars, Mrs. Ella Brown, and Mrs. Lundy.

The Halloween Carnival committee, headed by Mrs. Sharon Brown, announced they would have posters in town by Oct. 10, publicizing the event.

Dr. Robert Burton, talking on "Geology and Genesis," dispelled the idea of conflict between the scientific and biblical views of creation.

Science, he said, answers the question "how" and the Bible answers the question "why."

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Linda Cates, 3203 Linda Lane.

Homecoming At Happy Set Friday

Happy's first football team members will be special guests during homecoming festivities for Happy High School Friday.

The class of 1922 will celebrate their 50th anniversary during the day's activities.

The class of 1947 will celebrate their 25th anniversary.

The district champion girls basketball team from 1952 will also be honored during the day.

Activities begin at 1 p.m. Friday with registration at the high school entrance.

From 2-3 p.m., a program, pep rally and business session are slated.

Former students will be honored with a buffet supper in the school cafeteria at 5:30 p.m.

Happy's 1972 version of the Cowboys will try to extend their winning streak to three games as they go up against Amherst in an 8 p.m. tiff.

Following the game at 10 p.m., coffee will be served the visitors in the cafeteria.
